FRANCE WILL AWAIT REPLY OF BRITAIN ON WRANGEL

Situation Is Eased By Announcement Of New Policy

NOT AGGRESSIVE

Allies To Remain In Harmony, Asserts Entente Member

MILLERAND TALKS

Premier Promises To Hold Nations' Unity In His Mind

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 13.—The French Foreign Office points out that the French Government's recognition of General Wrangel's Government implies no question of military assistance which will not be given until after an exchange of views with Great Britain.

London, August 13.—The political situation was considerably eased today by the French Foreign Office statement that France will not take any steps to furnish General Wrangel with military aid until after an exchange of views with Great Britain.

NEW POSITION

This appears completely to alter the position, for hitherto the impression was that France had decided to aid General Wrangel, whatever the outcome of the Minsk conference.

In view of this development, it is believed that Mr. Lloyd George will be able to announce in the House of Commons on Monday that the incident is closed and that the Allies are united on the policy to be adopted towards Russia.

London, August 13.—There is general public anxiety in London and Paris to do everything to assist the two Governments in smoothing over the Anglo French misunderstanding.

—Speaking at Noyon yesterday, M. Millerand declared that the Allies were united and would remain united. There were inevitable divergencies, due to national characteristics, but the union would continue which had been forced and wrought in severe trials.

London, August 15.—Mr. J. L. Garvin, writing in the Observer says that the French action with regard to General Wrangel has made it impossible for Great Britain to go to actual war on any issue, connected with Poland, and has almost thrown the whole East European game into Lenin's hands. He adds that the Entente must be revised and there must be a union of freedom and goodwill in place of the recent relationship, which has been a "union of fetters."

NO MISUNDERSTANDING

A high French official interviewed by Reuter's Paris correspondent declared that both Governments should take steps to avoid such misunderstandings.

It is generally hoped that Reuter's revelation will have the effect of preventing isolated action like that of France in future.

Washington, August 13.—Although there is little doubt that America's sympathies incline towards General Wrangel, the United States Government will probably withhold recognition of General Wrangel's Government unless it becomes necessary to establish direct contact, when recognition would be merely provisional. The United States Government appears still to be uncertain regarding Poland and is awaiting the suggestions of the other Governments in reply to its recent note.

Constantinople, August 13.—Despatches from the Crimea state that General Wrangel has defeated the 13th Red Army, capturing 4,000 prisoners; 39 guns and other material. General Wrangel's fleet has bombarded Ochakov in order to open the Dnieper.

AMERICAN VICTIMS OF WORLD CONFLICT SENT TO HOME SOIL

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 13.—The Belgian steamer Groningen, chartered by the United States Government, has arrived in Glasgow to receive the bodies of American soldiers, buried in Scotland during the war, for reburial in their natives places.

Many bodies of American soldiers have been exhumed in various parts of the West of Scotland, notably in Islay and other Western islands of which hundreds lost their lives through the sinking of a transport.

Shipyards In Japan Discussed In Report

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 13.—The Times publishes the interesting impressions on shipbuilding conditions abroad of Mr. James French, the Chief Surveyor of Lloyd's Register in North America, who has recently returned to London from New York via the Pacific and the Far East.

In the course of Mr. French's visit to Japanese shipyards, he noted their adaptation to changed conditions and he mentions the busyness at the old-established wards where fine cargo vessels are being built.

Mr. French refers to other excellent new yards most of which, however, he says, are feeling the general falling off in the demand for tonnage. He touches on the excellent work in the Hongkong yards and the good repairing facilities at Singapore.

Cholera Breaks Out Shuntehfu Reports

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, August 14.—A foreigner, residing at Shuntehfu on the Peking-Hankow railway, reports that a serious epidemic of cholera has broken out there. Up to the present there have been over 1,500 deaths at Shuntehfu and in the surrounding villages. There have also been a number of cases of cholera in the villages around Paotingfu.

GERMAN SHIPS TO MEET FATE THEY CREATED

Vessels Turned Over To Americans Will Be Sunk At Sea

RUDDERS TO BE BOUND

Lives Spared But Former Foes To Be Given Severe Example

(Reuter's Service)

New York, August 13.—According to present plans, the surrendered German warships will be sent out into the Atlantic at full speed with their rudders jammed and sunk by the torpedoes and guns of the American Fleet.

Throughout the controversy over the disposal of the German warships the position that the United States took—that the vessels should be taken to sea and sent down—has remained unchanged.

The above despatch bears out the assertion made months ago by American peace representatives that whatever German warships were allocated to America would be destroyed.

It has not been known heretofore, however, in what manner the destruction of the Teuton warships would be carried out, but the despatch indicates that it will be in the nature of a great naval spectacle in which some millions of dollars worth of property will be sacrificed.

SPECIAL QUARTERS FOR SHAW, SAY JAPAN REPORTS

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, August 15.—The following statement regarding the treatment of Mr. George Shaw has been received from an authoritative quarter:

(1) Officials of the Government-General of Korea have been careful to see that Mr. Shaw is properly treated. They have gone so far as to provide new quarters, not an ordinary cell, for his detention and have leniently permitted the supply of things desired by the prisoner; (2) an Englishman named Allen called at the police station at Shingishu on the day following Mr. Shaw's detention with a letter of introduction from the Japanese Consul at Antung and was permitted to see the prisoner; (3) the British Vice-Consul at Seoul was permitted to see the prisoner on July 15.

"It has been ascertained from conversation with the prisoner that he is entirely satisfied with the especially courteous care of the police authorities in matters such as the treatment of correspondence."

"The foregoing facts," the statement proceeds, "confute the allegations that Mr. Shaw has been cruelly and barbarously treated by the officials of Korea. In view of the explanation given in the House of Commons by the British Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs on August 9, it may be supposed that Mr. Shaw has been insidiously connected with the conspiracy of Korean agitators.

"Therefore it is an unjust and unwarrantable insinuation to impute the motive to the Japanese that Mr. Shaw was arrested to eliminate his commercial influence from Antung."

Mesopotamia Oil Policy Is Outlined

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 13.—In the course of an interview with the Daily Mail, the Oil Controller, Sir John Cadman, indicated that there would be no nationalisation of the Mesopotamian oil fields, which would be worked as British competitive concerns, paying royalties which would be earmarked for the benefit of Mesopotamia.

According to present plans, the oil would be carried by pipe-lines to the Mediterranean through Syria. France, added Sir John Cadman, had already notified her assent to this scheme.

ROBBINS TO WARSAW

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 12.—The famous Foreign Legion is being reinforced. Its scope is being considerably widened by the formation of regiments of cavalry and artillery and a battalion of engineers.

FORMER FOREIGN ENVOY TO HEAD RED CROSS HERE

Mr. Yang Tcheng, former Special Envoy of Foreign Affairs, has been elected chairman of the Central Committee of the Red Cross Society of China. Mr. Yang was most active in all benevolent work during his tenure of office here and his election to the new office is believed by many as a fitting expression of appreciation towards Mr. Yang by the local Chinese community.

Mr. Yang has expressed his willingness to accept and in a lengthy manifesto he issued yesterday appealed to all his colleagues and his friends to give all that is in their power to help a great cause.

Combination Formed To Assist Turkey

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 13.—An agreement has been concluded between Great Britain, France and Italy regarding the delimitation of the zones of occupation in Asia Minor. The object of the agreement is to assist Turkey in the development of her resources and the reorganisation of her administrative services.

The agreement stipulates that the contracting parties shall be equally represented on all international commissions in Turkey.

It also defines the terms of working the Anatolian railways and the portion of the Bagdad railway included in Turkish territory.

Tribute Is Paid To Memory Of Gorgas

(Reuter's Service)

New York, August 13.—The remains of Surgeon-General Gorgas, which have been brought from England, were landed here today. A military guard of honor received the coffin. The General's youngest brother draped the coffin with the American flag, after which it was borne from the landing-stage through a lane of Army Welfare Workers to the train for conveyance to Washington.

Suffrage Assured By Southern Voters

French Executive In Good Health

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 13.—Doubts continue to be expressed regarding President Deschanel's health and an official statement is demanded. It is reported that M. Millerand possesses a document proving that the President is unable to resume his functions. On the other hand, the Petit Parisien says that a highly placed personage, after a long interview with M. Deschanel, declared that the President was in perfect health.

MASTERS REJECT BARBERS' TERMS; 5,000 ON STRIKE

Majority Of Chinese Hair Artists Walk Out As Raise Is Refused

Shops Attempting Business Were Intimidated By Parading Strikers

Over 5,000 Yangchow barbers went on strike yesterday as the result of the failure of their employers to increase their commission. Barbers of other provinces are not effected by the walkout. The employers are expected to appoint a number of representatives to confer with the strikers today.

The Yangchow barbers, who comprise of the majority of barbers in Shanghai have a special form of contract with their employers. They cater to the middle and lower classes of customers only. They receive no salary from employers, who only furnish them lodging and food. The barbers must turn in 60 percent of his total daily receipts to his employer in turn for the food and lodging.

Circulars were sent out among the hair artists early yesterday. Few shops in Nantao opened their doors, but were promptly closed when a gang of strikers paraded the streets.

Russian Jewels Of Royal Family Are Seized By Customs

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, August 13.—The Customs have intercepted a parcel from Soviet Russia to Martens, the so-called Bolshevik Ambassador to the United States, containing over a hundred diamonds which are believed to be part of the famous Russian Crown jewels.

New York, August 13.—Ludwig Martens, the unrecognised Russian Soviet ambassador, has denied all knowledge of the diamonds, alleged to have been addressed to him, and has expressed great indignation at the report. He said that all the confiscated Russia Crown jewels were in the Soviet National Treasury.

Wu Pei-fu Returns To Capital; Sees Leaders In Peking

Greek Premier In Better Condition

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 13.—A bulletin issued at noon today states that only two bullets hit M. Venizelos when he was shot at the Gare de Lyon yesterday; one bullet merely caused a graze and did not lodge, but the other split into four fragments and lodged in the armpit. The fragments have been extracted under radiographic control.

The bulletin adds that the patient's condition is most satisfactory and that it is hoped that he will be able to leave hospital in three days.

Germans In Plot With Bolshevists To Upset Pact

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 13.—The Paris edition of the New York Herald states that Germany and Soviet Russia have concluded a military, political and economic alliance within the last ten days with the object of overthrowing the Versailles treaty and re-establishing the pre-war frontier of Germany, and that a second alliance has been formed between Russia, Germany and Austria for action against Hungary if she gives aid to Poland.

Japs Aid Brigands With Munitions To Break Down Chinese Rule Over R.R.

Peking's Special Commission Of Advisers Find Nipponese Furnished Rifles, Machine-Guns And Hand Grenades To Bandits Along C.E.R.

Peking, August 12.—The following is the first instalment of the text of the report made by the special commission of advisers appointed by the Chinese Government to investigate the conditions in the North-Eastern frontier provinces and to inquire into the Allied problem of the Russian buffer state (the Far-Eastern Republic).

(1) The Commission's observations in the domestic sphere:

Japanese troops first appeared in Northern Manchuria in the course of the year 1918, when in common with other Allied troops, they were set to the triple task of combatting enemy penetration into Siberia, lending active support to the Kolchak scheme and facilitating the Czecho-Slovak evacuation.

The stipulations regarding their passage through and their presence on Chinese territory, as well as their co-operation with the Chinese authorities and with Chinese troops, were embodied in the conventions, signed on March 25, 1918, and known as the Sino-Japanese military pact.

In January, 1919, by virtue of an agreement made between the Allied and Associated Powers having troops in Siberia, that is to say, China, the United States, France, Great Britain, Japan, Czecho-Slovakia and the Omsk government, an Inter-Allied committee was created, with two sub-committees (a military transportation board and an interallied technical board) for the purpose of controlling the working of the Trans-Siberian and Chinese Eastern railways within the zone of the military operations. The patrolling of the Changchun-Harbin section of the Chinese Eastern railway was confided to the Japanese.

JAPS SEEK CONTROL.

The attitude of the Japanese troops in Northern Manchuria and elsewhere was responsible for a number of incidents which led to the filing of a memorandum of protest of the Inter-Allied technical board with all the Allies. The Japanese attitude was subsequently modified and today is correct in outward appearances. Nevertheless, beneath the surface are to be seen numerous indications of their deep desire to dominate, if not completely to control, the administration of the railway.

Thus they neglect no opportunity to interfere with the working of the line; they constantly watch the movement of traffic; and they have made every possible attempt to instal themselves in a commanding position both along the railway and in buildings belonging to the company. They have small military detachments at all the important stations, this being more noticeable in the section east of Harbin (Kirin province) than in the western or Heilungkiang province.

ATTEMPTED SEIZURE

Last year they made a deliberate attempt to seize the section south of Harbin (Changchun-Harbin) by moving up to Harbin all the material necessary to convert the line from Russian broad gauge to standard gauge (South Manchuria system), an effort which was successfully resisted by the agents of the Allied Powers. Since then they have attempted to cover this failure by offering to lease from the Chinese Eastern railway for a term of years all freight space on the Harbin-Changchun section, and thus to establish an effective Japanese monopoly, an effort which has also come to naught.

The Commission is in possession of very precise and detailed information regarding the movements of Japanese troops both in Manchuria and Transbaikalia. But this information is mainly of historical interest in view of the fact that Japan has announced her intention to evacuate Transbaikalia. The Inter-Allied Technical Board at Harbin is taking all necessary steps to expedite this retirement, but it is impossible to forecast whether the Japanese, as they declare will be the case, will entirely evacuate all territory west of Harbin, repatriating the Transbaikalia army of occupation, or whether they will detain a certain proportion of these troops in North or South Manchuria. It is useful to note that the Japanese Military Mission in Harbin declares that the present number of Japanese distributed along the Chinese Eastern Railway amounts to no more than one weak brigade (say 3,500 men); that these troops are the minimum possible along lines of communication to maintain the supply posts (etapes); that they in no wise interfere with the guarding of the railway which was confided by the Allies to Chinese troops; and that such vigilance as they display is an ordinary precaution which military science demands.

It is certainly true that all Japanese infantry detailed for platform work at stations wear the military transportation armlet, which is significantly the South Manchuria Railway insignia.

KINDS OF RUSSIANS

Owing to the large number of refugees who have come into Chinese territory from Siberia it is difficult to get precise information regarding the numbers and characteristics of all Russians distributed along the railway. This population may be divided into two categories:

1.—The Reactionary Party, represented by the adherents of men like Horvath, Semenoff, Gondatti, etc., which is numerically speaking very weak but which dominates the railway administration. The reactionaries would view with deep displeasure the passing of the railway under complete Chinese control, and, to prevent this seem disposed to reach an understanding with the Japanese.

2.—The Popular Party, which is bitterly opposed to the reactionaries. It shares the political views of the Vladivostok Government, if not of the Soviets, and it is violently anti-Japanese. This party desires to be represented on the Supreme Board of the railway.

ALIEN PROBLEM

The presence of this large alien population is, in the opinion of the commission, the knottiest problem for China if she decides to administer herself the entire railway zone. Differing radically from the Chinese population in habits, language, laws, religion and political and social ideas, and divided withal into two hostile camps, this Russian population is certainly not an easy one to control.

It appears to the commission almost impossible for China to change the existing Russian administration in municipal matters and jurisdiction unless she herself adopts a new procedure and enlists in her service Russians. The Chinese authorities at Harbin have very wisely kept aloof from all local political struggles, but the

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 13.—The National Conference of the Labor Party and Trades-Union Congress, attended by 1,044 delegates, today adopted a resolution pledging itself to resist any and every form of military or naval intervention against Soviet Russia and authorising the Council of Action to call a strike, if necessary, in order to enforce the pledge.

LABOR BELLIGERENT

The Conference further refuses to be associated with any alliance between Great Britain and France or any other country which commits it to support General Wrangel and Poland or to supply munitions or other war material for any form of attack upon Russia.

CONFERENCE DEMANDS

The Conference has instructed the Council of Action to remain in being until they have secured (1) an absolute guarantee that the armed forces of Great Britain shall not be used to support any naval or military effort against the Soviet Government; (2) the withdrawal of all British naval forces operating as a blockading influence against Russia; (3) recognition of the Russian Soviet Government and the establishment of unrestricted trading and commercial relations between Great Britain and Russia.

LABORS ULTIMATUM

This ultimatum to the Government on the part of organised Labor is regarded as a challenge to wreck the British Constitution, if necessary, in order to prevent war with Russia. The Conference's resolution means that Labor has pledged itself to a national revolution, unless the Government remove all traces of a blockading policy against Russia and establish direct trade and commerce with Russia.

There seems no doubt that the Extremists have captured Labor and stampeded the movement into saying that they would have a revolution, not a mere strike, to save Red Russia.

Paris, August 13.—The Paris edition of the New York Herald states that Germany and Soviet Russia have concluded a military, political and economic alliance within the last ten days with the object of overthrowing the Versailles Treaty and re-establishing the pre-war frontier of Germany, and that a second alliance has been formed between Russia, Germany and Austria for action against Hungary if she gives aid to Poland.

Brussels, August 13.—The International Seamen's Congress today adopted a resolution declaring that in order to prevent future wars seamen will refuse to transport troops or munitions and that this is applicable to the Russo Polish conflict.

Berlin, August 13.—In reply to Bolshevik inquiry, the German Government has announced that, in accordance with strict neutrality, it will continue to intern Polish troops entering Germany.

U. S. REPLY

Paris, August 13.—The text was published today of M. Millerand's reply to the American note (addressed to the Allies but handed to the Italian Ambassador at Washington) on Russia.

The reply states that the French Government is entirely in accord with the views of the American Government. It denounces the Soviet Government as being entirely unrepresentative of the Russian nation, its regime being founded on the negation of all the principles of honor and good faith. The French Government, the note adds, cannot have official relations with a Government which is resolved to conspire against her institutions.

Berlin, August 14.—The Commander of the Fourth Bolshevik

army informed German press representatives that a Soviet had been formed at Bielostock on June 30 and that it would proceed to Warsaw after the capture of the Polish capital, and from there conclude peace with Soviet Russia on the basis of self-determination.

The Lokal Anzeiger reports that the Poles are restoring the former German fortresses of Graudenz and Thorn and organising resistance on the Vistula line.

PRESS APPROVES U.S. NOTE

Washington, August 12.—The press is remarkably unanimous in approbation of the United States note on the Polish situation, and particularly of its attitude of non-recognition of the Bolshevik regime.

Warsaw, August 13.—Today's Polish communique speaks of the repulse of desperate Bolshevik attacks in the northern sector, where the Reds are trying at all costs to drive the Poles from Pultusk.

Increased activity on the part of General Budienny's cavalry is reported in the southern sector, where cavalry have penetrated as far as Cholojow. A Polish counterattack is proceeding. The Ukrainian detachments which had retired behind the Strypa have regained their old positions.

Warsaw, August 13.—General Weygand has declined the proposal of the Polish Council of National Defense that he should undertake the office of Chief of Staff of the Polish army, although he will continue to act as Advisor-General.

It had previously been reported that General Weygand had accepted the post of Chief of the Polish Staff conditionally.

RUSS TERMS FAIR

London, August 13.—Reuter learns that the statement that Mr Lloyd George had advised the Poles that the Russian terms were fair and ought to be accepted is incorrect.

The communication addressed to Warsaw, which was decided upon at a meeting of the Cabinet, did not advise the Poles to accept the Soviet terms, but only intimated that, if the terms were bona fide the Government believed that the British people would not approve a declaration of war in order to obtain better terms for Poland.

DEMAND GERMANY VOICE

London, August 13.—One of the resolutions of the Lambeth Conference advocates immediate steps to urge the principles of the League of Nations upon the world and declares that the peace of the world, no less than Christian principle demands the admission of Germany and other nations into the League at the earliest moment.

Other resolutions call on supporters of the League of Nations to set their face against injustice to native races, particularly with reference to tenure of land, forced labor, the liquor trade, morphia in China and other abuses, and protest against color prejudice as gravely imperilling the peace of the future.

Yet another resolution, prospective to reunion of the Christian Church, expresses disapproval of general schemes of intercommunion or exchange of pulpits, believing that they might imperil the attainment of the ideal.

POLES RETREAT

Berlin, August 14.—The Poles have evacuated Soldau, (East Prussia). Soldau is on the Warsaw-Danzig railway, 15 miles north-west of Mlawa.

London, August 15.—A Warsaw telegram to the Weekly Despatch states that the Polish delegates left for Minsk yesterday morning.

RICHARD ELWELL

Above is a new photograph of Mrs. Helen Derby Elwell, widow of the noted turfman and whist expert, who was mysteriously slain in his New York home recently. For a number of years she and Elwell lived apart.

It is reported that the two had under consideration a divorce plan for several weeks before Elwell was found slain. Failure of the turfman to provide in his will for his sixteen-year-old son Richard, who is also shown above, may probably result in a court action being started by Mrs. Elwell. This photograph of Mrs. Elwell was taken at the time of her graduation from college.

New Mushroom Government Arises In Eastern Siberia

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, August 13 (delayed.)—Another mushroom Government has sprung up in Eastern Siberia, this time at Habarovsk.

Four members of the Vladivostok Parliament, headed by the Mayor of Habarovsk, have broken away from the Zemstvo Government, formed an independent party, and attempted to convert the local Municipal Council into an independent Government for Habarovsk district. The complexion of this so-called Government is strongly reactionary.

A proclamation issued by the Mayor on his return from Vladivostok, (1) renounces all authority of the Zemstvo Government over Habarovsk district and (2) declares the Municipal Council of Habarovsk to be the sole legal Government of the district.

ASKS FOR LOAN

It is stated that the Mayor has requested the Japanese to grant the new "Government" a loan of yen 30,000,000, in return for which he offers various concessions to the Japanese and undertakes to introduce the Japanese monetary system.

All Russians in the district who refuse allegiance to the new "Government" have been ordered to leave. An order has been issued dismissing the local Chief of Militia, which the latter has refused to obey. It is reported that Japanese troops are patrolling streets of Habarovsk.

Peking, August 15.—A representative of the Verdhne-Udinsk Government, who left Kiatka on the 8th instant, has arrived at Kalgan en route for Peking.

PEACE TERMS

Vladivostok, August 14.—The Vladivostok peace delegates, after a conference with the Chita authorities, found that agreement could be reached with them. They have now proceeded to Verdhne-Udinsk.

The authorities, before allowing the delegates to enter Verdhne-Udinsk territory, insisted on their signing the following declarations:

(1) Verdhne-Udinsk is the main Government in the Far East until a general election has been held for which no time limit is fixed.

(2) Verdhne-Udinsk shall be the meeting place of the Far Eastern Governments. In order that there shall be no foreign influence the Chita Government is excluded.

(3) After the Japanese have evacuated the Zabaikal, Verdhne-Udinsk guards shall occupy the railways.

The chairman of the Vladivostok delegation resigned in preference to signing the agreement but it was signed by the Communist delegates. The Japanese have taken up the matter with the Vladivostok Government, who have recalled the delegates.

LED BY BOLSHEVIK

Peking, August 16.—The Verdhne-Udinsk commercial mission which is on its way to Peking, is said to be accompanied by Soviet delegates under the leadership of Dzevaltolneski, the well-known Siberian Bolshevik Commissary, who is now known as Julin.

CHINESE ATTITUDE

Peking, August 16.—The Russian Legation recently requested the government to afford the necessary protection to all Russian frontier consulates.

It appears that a Bolshevik detachment a fortnight ago entered Mongolia. Chinese troops made a display of armed resistance whereupon the invaders retreated across the frontier.

The Chinese believe that General Kalmikoff has taken shelter in the Province of Kirin and this has led to a correspondence between the Government and the Russian Legation, which has offered to transfer the Consul at Kirin and to instruct the Russian Consul at Changchun to attend to the affairs of the Kirin Consulate. The Government, however, does not desire the closing of the Kirin Consulate which, it believes, is able to exercise supervision, over Kalmikoff's band on the Kirin frontier.

Automotive Agent Visiting Shanghai

Mr. John Ross Duggan Here To Study Transportation And Other Problems

Among the arrivals on the Empress of Russia on Saturday was Mr. John Ross Duggan, Factory Engineer of the Automotive Products Corporation, Woolworth Building, New York, which is affiliated with The American Steel Export Company. He represents an association of American factories anxious to place their products at the direct and personal command of local markets. Major Duggan is a veteran of the war, having served five years with the New Zealand Field Artillery, being thrice wounded.

Mr. Duggan is making a thorough survey of the entire Orient market and of the applicability of gasoline and electric transportation and farm tractors to local conditions. Mr. Duggan, who is a member of the Society of Automotive Engineers, has made a close study of these subjects and his report is awaited with much interest.

Quakers In Plan To Benefit Chinese

Obituary

DR. MARK WILLIAMS

Dr. Mark Williams, the oldest living missionary in China, passed away at sea on the liner Empress of Russia just before the vessel touched Yokohama. The body was cremated yesterday afternoon at the Bubbling Well Cemetery. The ashes will be sent to Kalgan to be buried besides his wife's grave there.

Two years ago Dr. Williams returned to America, but as his health began to fail, he expressed a desire to end his days in the country to which he had devoted so much of his life. Though he seemed fairly well when he sailed, the aged missionary suffered a stroke while at sea and died after lying unconscious for two days. He was accompanied on the voyage by Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Hemingway, his son-in-law and daughter, who brought the remains to Shanghai.

Dr. Williams is survived by a son and four daughters, one of whom, Mrs. J. B. Ferguson, is now visiting China with her husband.

Dr. Williams was born 86 years ago in Shandon, Ohio. He came to China as a missionary under the American Board in 1866, crossing on the last sailing vessel to take passengers to Asia around South America. He spent the greater part of his missionary career in Kalgan and Peking, though for the last ten years he has lived at Taiku, Shansi Province, where his son-in-law, Dr. W. A. Hemingway, is in charge of the C. I. M. Hospital. Dr. Williams was one of the famous group of refugees who escaped from the Boxers by crossing the Gobi Desert into Siberia.

Wedding

ALLMAN-HAMILTON

On the tenth of August at the Tewksbury Cottage, Rocky Point, Peitaiho Beach, Miss Mary Louise Hamilton and Mr. Norwood Francis Allman were united in marriage by the Rev. John Murray.

The bride is the daughter of the late Dr. W. B. Hamilton and Mrs. Hamilton of Tsinanfu, Shantung, and was a member of the American Presbyterian Mission. Mr. Allman, of Union Hall, Virginia is vice consul at Tsingtao.

The bride was given away by Dr. J. B. Neal president of the Shantung Christian University, Tsinan. Mr. Clarence Spiker acted as the groom's best man. Master Howard Torrance carried the bride's train. The ushers were Messrs. Lucius Porter and Eric Clarke both of Peking.

Nine little flower girls carrying garlands of white and pink asters formed an aisle through which the bride passed. The little girls were Isabel Evans and Harriet Evans of Tsinan, Elizabeth Porter, and Flora Little of Peking, Helen and Josephine Scott, Marjorie and Winifred Wheeler, and Marjorie MacRae of Tsinan. These were all dressed in pink and white.

The bride wore a beautiful dress of tafeta and French lace and veil of embroidered net and carried a shower bouquet of roses.

After a few weeks in Korea Mr. and Mrs. Allman will be at home in Tsingtao.

Man Hides Money in Coffee Pot, Then Forgets

CLEVELAND, O.—Eugene Para reported to police Monday night that $54 of his savings which he had hidden in 2 coffee pots in his restaurant, had been stolen. Last night he assured the officers that it was all a mistake.

He explained the money was in a small coffee bag inside the pot. Forgetting the money, he said he placed the pot on a steaming radiator.

The coffee boiled over and with it the $54. "I've found the bag and the money behind the radiator," he said.

Japs Aid Brigands With Munitions To Break Down Chinese Rule Over R.R.

Russian population does not appear to appreciate this impartiality.

The commission received constant complaints and recriminations from both parties regarding Chinese partiality towards one group or the other, each side declaring that it was the victim of misrepresentation and persecution.

If the Chinese government decides to assume a more direct control over the administration, great care must be taken to secure that its actions are not liable to misinterpretation. For the fact must not be lost sight of that Russia is destined to recover and again become a great Power.

It would be both unjust and impolitic to inflict on those who are today dependent upon China a treatment as severe as that reserved for enemy subjects.

CHINESE CONTROL LIMITED

The degree of control which the Chinese government exercises over the Chinese Eastern Railway is of a limited character. The appearance of direct control has been created, first, because the railway is now garrisoned by 25,000 Chinese troops, secondly, because the policing of Harbin and the stations is now carried out by China herself, and, thirdly, because China has filled the appointment of the Chinese Director General of the railway company provided for under Article 1 of the original concession.

But the actual operating of the railway remains under the old Russian management. In the great administrative building in Harbin are still to be found no less than 2,000 Russian employes, a number out of all proportion with the enterprise, not forgetting that the railway company oversees practically every sphere of activity in the railway zone and comprises ventures in the nature of empire building.

Effective Chinese control can be increased only very gradually, for the good reason that the Chinese Eastern railway is not like other railways built in China, where foreign participation in the operating is limited to the technical departments. The Chinese Eastern railway has been a purely Russian railway, with four-fifths of the employes Russian from the management to the ordinary workman, with the operating entirely carried out in the Russian language to serve the needs of a Russian population. Its principal role during the past 15 years has been to unite economically and strategically two Russian provinces.

PURCHASE DIFFICULT

The taking over or purchase outright of the Chinese Eastern railway by the Chinese government would be a very much more complicated and difficult task than the purchase of the Peking-Hankow railway proved to be, or even the proposed acquirement of the Peking-Mukden railway.

Thanks to the co-operation of the Allied technical board, China has placed a number of young Chinese engineers in the locomotive round-houses, and also appointed others to be traffic inspectors, as a preliminary measure, and in time should be in a position to understand thoroughly the requirements of the road.

The whole matter of the Chinese Eastern railway is, however, so complex that the members of the commission propose to deal with it in special reports. Nothing less than the liquidation of a vast experiment in empire-building has to be worked out.

CRITICISMS MADE

The transfer of the guarding and policing of the railway from Russian to Chinese hands has been on the whole well received and has given reasonably good results. The troops and police are keen and serious, and appear thoroughly to understand the international peril. Three serious criticisms have in the main been made.

1. That although the Chinese police is well-intentioned, its ignorance of the Russian language and of Russian customs keeps it aloof from the Russian population and renders it often unable to give that service which is expected of it.

2. That the general bearing and discipline of some units leave a good deal to be desired, if for no other reason than that the presence of Japanese detachments makes unfavorable comparisons a national matter.

3. That the country districts, particularly the Sungari valley and the sections of the railway in the mountainous of Eastern Kirin, are full of danger, bands of hunghutze preying on the country and frequently plundering steamers and junks.

Inasmuch as the commission is dealing fully with the question of police in a later report, this matter need not be more clearly specified in the present memorandum.

JAPS AID BRIGANDS

Regarding the troops, it is a fact that the field troops despatched from the Peking military district have a better rating than certain other local forces. The question of clearing the country of brigandage is highly important, but it is necessary to emphasise that the territorial officials maintain that once Japanese evacuation is carried out this danger will disappear. They point to the great numbers of Meiji 38th Year rifles captured and the arming of the bands with Japanese machine-guns as proofs that foreign nations have assisted brigandage in order to break down Chinese control.

At the station of Imianpo (verst 156 east of Harbin) 63 cases of hand-grenades were actually seized by the Chinese garrison a few days prior to the Commission's visit, evidently consigned to brigands; who are said to number six or seven thousand in this district alone.

POSITION DISTRESSING

Equally distressing is the position on the Sungari river, which is a feeder to the Chinese Eastern railway.

The question of safeguarding the heavy river-traffic is of high importance, owing to the growing trade between China and Russia, and to the fact that the Manchurian provinces form virtually a granary for all Eastern Siberia. At the present moment there are (according to the Harbor Master of the Chinese Maritime Customs at Harbin) navigating the Sungari 54 Chinese shallow-draft steamers, 14 Chinese Eastern Railway steamers, 16 Russian steamers, and 6 Russian steamers secretly owned by Japanese, in violation of the Sino-Russian treaties, which limits river traffic to Chinese and Russian vessels. There are also between 6,000 and 7,000 junks on the river, the arrivals at Harbin sometimes totalling 200 junks in a single day.

An immense grain traffic is carried on by these vessels, which has been recently seriously interfered with by brigands, whose activities are facilitated by the unprecedented low water in the river. Vessels, as they pass the shallows, are attacked by horse-brigands, who by volley-firing make the navigators lose control, and drive the vessels on to sand banks, where they are easily pillaged. Many casualties have resulted.

The fitting out of the gunboats, now in dock at Harbin, should be expedited in every possible way.

SECOND INSTALMENT

Peking August 13.—The following is the second instalment of the Report of the Special Commission of Advisers to the Chinese Government on conditions in the North-East Frontier Provinces and in Eastern Siberia.

Part II. Frontier Problems.

The Commission did not proceed to Chita or beyond. Therefore it did not come into actual contact with the Bolshevik regime. But the members of the Commission had discussions with Mr. Vilensky, Soviet representative accredited to the Far Eastern Republic, and they can offer some observations.

Mr. Vilensky is significantly described as a Communist of the new formations. He assures us that many of the doctrines, laid down as fundamental by Lenin at the inception of the Soviet regime, have been profoundly modified after some years' wrestling with practical work of Government. While the theory of "the dictatorship of the Proletariat," has not yet been officially thrown overboard, in practice the new Communists, according to Mr. Vilensky, are far more tolerant of non-Bolsheviks than formerly and appear to be willing to admit to the franchise large new classes, so long as the Soviet or committee system of government remains unmodified.

In the economic field the Soviet system is plainly still feeling its way, the war which it has declared on money as a measure of value being just as energetically waged as ever. Consequently, with a whole population on rations, and with ration tickets in lieu of money, no judgment of value can be offered as to the modifications which will come in Siberia, excepting to say that the thinly-distributed population between the Ural Mountains and Lake Baikal will not easily be organised on anything but a purely agricultural basis.

HIS FOREIGN POLICY

Mr. Vilensky states that the foreign policy of the Soviet Government in Siberia reflects the progressive modifications of the domestic regime. Toleration is increasing. Towards China he declares that very friendly feelings exist—not solely because China (like Russia) is in conflict with Japanese ambitions, but because the Chinese are essentially a democratic people, and because all Bolshevist leaders realise that the Russian Far East is largely dependent upon China for its food supplies. An interesting fact is that Chinese dollars appear to be invading Eastern Siberia. There are said to be a million silver dollars circulating in the Chita district, and silver dollars are good currency wherever there are Chinese traders from Irkutsk to the sea.

The Reactionary Party is without any real strength in Siberia. All that remains of it is concentrated around the person of Semenoff, who himself only survives on account of Japanese support. Even the Semenoff adherents are divided among themselves, there having been conflicts between Semenoff's own soldiers and those of his most notorious lieutenant, Baron Ungern, who has been the uncrowned king of Daurja, a station a dozen versts beyond the Manchurian frontier. There is also the force known as Rappel's army, retrieved from the wreckage of the Omsk Government. The major portion of these troops will undoubtedly go over to the Reds the very day Japanese support is removed.

JAPS PLUNDERING

That the Japanese possess all sorts of draft agreements with Semenoff, covering mining and commercial exploitation, entered into before deciding upon the evacuation of Transbaikalia, may be assumed. That they will try and enforce these agreements and protect Semenoff is proved by the fact that this leader sent off his wife to Japan with three million roubles in gold immediately the decision to evacuate Transbaikalia was published in the first week in July.

The Commission has no knowledge of any secret treaty between Japan and Russia. Nevertheless the Commission must place on record the conviction of certain very well informed men in Siberia that the halt of the Soviet armies, and the birth of the idea of a buffer State, after the Kolchak collapse, were due to an understanding between Japan and the Soviet Government, the main stipulation in that understanding being that the domination of Japan in this buffer state would be accepted by the Soviet Government, if Japan on her part would secure that all counter-revolutionists residing in this territory were reduced to such impotence that they would be unable to undertake an aggressive campaign against the Soviet rule west of Lake Baikal. In spite of searching investigations the Commission was unable to find any proofs of this nevertheless, the fact that the Moscow Government has not formally protested against Japanese actions taken since the 4th of April gives this statement a certain plausibility. Be this as it may, Japan has left no stone unturned to consolidate herself by making provisional or local agreements, which have largely come to naught, and which in any case have no international sanction behind them. The only secret agreement the commission knows of definitely is the one Japan made four years ago to acquire possession of that stretch of the Chinese Eastern Railway between Changchun and the Upper Sungari crossing (Laosha-kou), a secret understanding made, first with the Tsarist Government, then with Kerensky, which can have no validity in view of the fact that China was not a party to it and indeed repudiates it in every way. The actual position of Japan in Siberia (in the five provinces to be included in the Far Eastern Republic) at the time of the Commission's visit was as follows:

JAP'S POSITION

In Trans-Baikalia: military domination maintained to Mogzone (a hundred versts west of Chita) and by posts stretching northwards along the Amur railway towards Stretensk, i.e., a domination of one-third of Trans-Baikalia. This domination will terminate with the evacuation.

In the Amur province: no hold excepting around Nicolaievsk and the river estuary, maintained by using the sea route.

In the Pacific province: effective military occupation of the Ussuri railway and of the three towns of Vladivostok, Nikolsk and Habarovsk, the railway north of Nikolsk being entirely operated by the Japanese, producing partial paralysis of the Vladivostok provisional Government and entailing great economic suffering. Monopolisation of the fishing-rights and such serious interference with the salmon fishing of the Amur estuary that the autochthonous population is menaced with famine.

In Kamschatka: domination by means of naval patrols and guardships.

In Northern Saghalien: effective occupation of chief towns and anchorages.

In addition to this, the magnificent harbour of Possiet bay, just beyond the Korean frontier, is occupied and closed to all; also Castries Bay, north towards the Amur estuary, is being controlled and policed.

CONFLICTING ASSERTIONS

Inasmuch as many statements made to the Commission are in direct conflict and no satisfactory proofs of their accuracy or inaccuracy were available, the members of the Commission can only add to this bald summary what responsible persons declared to them was true. Thus the Commission found far and wide the general assumption that the position of Japan in Eastern Siberia is simply that of a military power occupying enemy territory. The proclaimed evacuation of Transbaikalia, it was generally assumed, was being undertaken principally to close the chapter of Allied action in co-operating to secure the evacuation of the Czecho-Slovak forces and to concentrate Japanese forces in the easily dominated coast regions. This new policy of concentration in the maritime provinces is the most probable explanation of the events of April 4 and 5 at Vladivostok. The Japanese general in command, General Oi, maintains that he only undertook a defensive operation to forestall general partisan risings, and to prevent massacres of isolated Japanese detachments. An explanation given by a member of the Provisional Government to the Advisers is that this policy was directed against the Provisional Government of the Far Eastern Republic in Vladivostok, and had for its object making it "obedient" to Japanese wishes. Influential Russians recalled again and again to the Commission that in the April onslaught fire was opened with artillery and machine-guns on the Zemstvo building in Vladivostok (where the Provisional Government was supposed to be in session) from a Japanese hotel directly across the street at a range of about 40 English yards; and that there was then sitting in Nikolsk a Provisional Assembly consisting of 500 delegates from all over the maritime province, which was entirely dispersed by the military measures undertaken. Thus, no matter what the original tacit understanding may have been regarding the Buffer State, the inherent incompatibility of Russian communism and Japanese monarchism has been glaringly demonstrated.

RUSSIANS HATE JAPS

Consequently, all Russians in Siberia, men, women and children, with few exceptions, hold the Japanese in such hostility that a people's war against them, so the Commission was assured, can with difficulty be prevented during the coming winter. That the Japanese troops live today in a state of siege, morally as well as physically, is one of the unfortunate results. That they realise their invidious position was verified by the Commission, a number of officers making very bitter remarks about the manner in which everything they did was misrepresented and about the injustice of public opinion, in view of their hard task. The suffering entailed upon the Japanese army by the cold winters in Siberia is such that sentries are relieved every thirty minutes, and it is said that the casualties from frostbite and pulmonary affections are so great as to amount to many times the number of men Japan lost in the Tsingtao operations. Responsible Japanese officers declare that the constant demand for immediate evacuation, at a time when the army feels bitter about the Nicolaievsk massacre and believes in the necessity of sternness if not reprisals, accentuates the fact that Japan in Eastern Siberia is in a critical position which it will require great patience to retrieve.

No Battle With U. S. Over Freights, Opinion Of Japanese Officials

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, July 14.—A responsible official of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha, interviewed today with regard to the Pacific freight rate questions, said that Japanese shipping interests did not desire a freight war in the Pacific, the fact being that they were anxious to establish fair conference rates, but the Jones Bill was the skeleton in the cupboard as it embodied measures detrimental to foreign shipping intersts and extended effective protection to American shipping.

JAPAN'S SUBSIDIES

It was true, he added, that some Japanese shipping companies were receiving Government subsidies but these were few in number and the amount of the subsidies was insignificant.

The Osaka Shosen Kaisha's American lines were not subsidised nor were many other Japanese shipping companies and therefore the adoption of uniform conference rates would give a great advantage to American shipping, which was strongly fortified by the Jones Shipping Bill.

The Osaka Shosen Kaisha, sincerely hoped for the revision of the Jones Bill, which would greatly assist relationship between American and Japanese shipping interests.

Kobe, August 14.—Mr. E. E. Johnson, agent of the Admiral Line, interviewed regarding the question of the Pacific freight rate, said that the Jones Bill and the conference rates were two distinct propositions.

NEEDS QUICK SOLUTION

The former was a matter for the future while the latter required immediate solution in order that shipping companies, hoisting different flags in the Pacific, might co-operate in a friendly spirit.

Besides, he continued, if it were left unsolved, a bitter international freight war would be inevitable. Mr. Johnson expressed the hope that the parties concerned would come to an agreement.

Mr. R. D. Baker, the representative of the United States Shipping Board, is now in Yokohama attending the conference of shipping men there.

WHEN BABY'S TEETH ARE COMING THROUGH

Baby's Own Tablets Save Pain and Tears.

Teething time not only is a trying period to baby but also means much worry to mothers.

The little one's gums become swollen and tender; he is cross; does not sleep well; is troubled with constipation, colic or diarrhoea and sometimes even convulsions seize him.

During this period nothing can equal the use of Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy. They regulate the bowels and stomach, and make the teething so easy that the mother scarcely realises baby is getting his teeth.

"My experience has been that Baby's Own Tablets allay the fever caused by teething and give baby healthy sleep. My baby has always been healthy except for the fever and restlessness accompanying teething and an occasional cold, but the Tablets have proved so beneficial in these cases that I would not be without them," writes Mrs. R. S. Long, of Peachland, British Colombia.

These Tablets are equally healthful and harmless to the youngest infant and the child of eight years or more, curing constipation, indigestion, colic, diarrhoea, simple fever and worms.

They are to be had from chemists, also post free at 60 cents the vial from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

NILE IN TODAY WITH U.S. MAIL

The steamer Nile of the China Mail Steamship Co: will arrive at the China Merchants Central Wharf about 7 o'clock this morning. It will leave for Hongkong at 5 a.m. Thursday. The Nile is bringing about 750 bags of mail for Shanghai and about 1,100 bags for Shanghai and the rest of China combined. Mail will close for Hongkong and Manila at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The Nile has 74 first and second class passengers for Shanghai, 66 cabin passengers, 200 tons of cargo and 1,763 packages of treasure.

The next mail for America, Canada and Europe will close at 5:30 p.m. Friday, August 20 to be dispatched on the s.s. Monteagle.

The Shanghai office of the China Mail received word yesterday that the steamer China which sailed from this port on July 25, arrived at San Francisco August 12 on schedule.

American Rail Rates Going Up

Messrs. Fobes Company received a cable yesterday from America carrying the notification that all overland railway freight rates will advance thirty-three and a third percent on August 26. This is seen as an outcome of conditions that followed the return of the roads to private ownership, the succeeding labor disturbances and the increased wages that have been granted to rail workers. It is taken to mean that it will have the inevitable effect of increasing the prices of a large number of American-made commodities in China.

SHANGHAI DEFEATS MONOCACY TEAM 14-0; SAILOR BOYS PUT UP FEEBLE OPPOSITION IN SEVEN INNING TILT

Triangular Series Begins Saturday With Double-Header: Two Shanghai Teams Playing U.S.S. Albany And 15th Infantry; Bolsheviki And Regulars Clash Today

By Viola Verclaire

Sunday's game between Shanghai and the Monocacy boys turned out to be another one of those games that make you remember your old "one old cat" days.

The home team seemed to be able to hit the ball and score runs whenever they felt so inclined, while Terry, pitching for the Shanghai Club, had the Sailors "breezing the air" all during the matinee.

It was just like all games there have been against outside teams, so far this year, with no opposition to speak of from the visitors. It is hoped that in the Tientsin series this week, Shanghai will have to do her best for once, to win.

The U.S.S. Albany has arrived in port and will be entered in the coming series with Tientsin, as the third team, taking the place of the Dairen Japanese team.

The Albany claims to have a fine team and will have lots of backing amongst the Navy boys. They say they haven't lost a game this year.

The teams of the series are scheduled to play as follows:

Saturday, August 21,
Shanghai vs. 15th Infantry (Tientsin).
Shanghai vs. U.S.S. Albany.
Sunday, August 22,
15th Infantry vs. Albany.
15th Infantry vs. Shanghai.
Tuesday, August 24,
Albany vs. 15th Infantry.
Thursday, August 26,
Shanghai vs. 15th Infantry.
Saturday, August 28,
Albany vs. Shanghai.
Albany vs. 15th Infantry.
Sunday, August 29,
Shanghai vs. Albany.

The umpires for the series will be "Pop" Guernsy, Doc. Clapp and Chapman.

Today the Bolsheviks and the Regulars will play off the sixth game of their series. If the Regulars win, the series will be ended, and the rest of the week will be spent in workouts for the coming series. Game called at 5 o'clock.

Following is the tabulated score for Sunday's game, for four innings:

Shanghai	A.B.	R.	H.	P.O.	A.

Golf Professional Arrives In Shanghai

Mr. J. Carter, who is to act as professional of the Shanghai Golf Club, was one of the arrivals on the Empress of Russia Saturday. As stated previously he is from the Hanger Hill Club. His presence will fill a need seriously felt as many of the Shanghai golfers have missed the services of a professional. The newcomer is a veteran of the war. He was captured early by the Germans and long was held prisoner.

SOUTH DEFEATS NORTH AT BOWLS

Singles Championship To Be Played Saturday At Hongkew Park

By "Skip"

The rain on Saturday morning created an element of doubt in the minds of several players. Some thought the matches would be on and some thought otherwise, the consquence was that at the Recs ground only sufficient bowlers for three rinks on each side were available to contest Inter Club humors. The result of the game was a win for the Waysiders by 21 points although the Recs won two out of the three rinks, one rink alone being responsible for the difference.

At the Lawn Bowls Club greens a similar state of affairs existed and one of the Captain's himself failed to turn up, the result was a pick up game from those present. Heavy showers spoiled what play was possible so that there was not much satisfaction in it.

You tell em "Prohib," the dry's were wet.

SOUTH v. NORTH

On Sunday 64 bowlers took part in the annual South versus North of Shanghai match on the Lawn Bowls Club enclosure at the Race Course. It was a very pleasant game but the odds were overwhelmingly on the Southern side the result being a victory by 89 shots.

It was a pity that the Northerners did not support this match better, there being many well known and capable bowlers who did not enter their names and several of those that did, failed to turn up. After the reserves had all been utilised substitutes had to be procured from the South reserves to fill up.

The North did not win a singles rink, although there were one or two near scores. There were also several wide ones as the following table will show. The skips names only are given.

"Singles Final"

Lawn Bowlers are reminded that the final of the Singles Open Championship of Shanghai takes place on Saturday at Hongkew Park. A very tough game is expected so keep the date open. The finalists are G. Manwaring (Recs) and G. Dunlop (L. B. C.) Referee Mr. F. Ferrier.

The odds are even.

Zingari, Famous Cricket Club, Soon To Celebrate Seventy-Fifth Birthday

(By The Gentleman in Black)

It may well be doubted whether, the M.C.C. alone excepted, there is a more famous cricket club in the world than I. Zingari. Its motto: "Keep your promise, keep your temper, keep your wicket up" is one which might well be adopted by other organisations—at least in spirit, for probably the members would not feel the greatest satisfaction in finding their well-known exhortation appropriated.

The Zingari occupies a position unique in the game. Its rules are peculiar to itself, and probably alone among clubs, some of its officers have long since departed this life. For example, the Perpetual President is the late Mr. William Proctor Bolland, who died as far back as 1863, and its Governor the venerable the late Sir Spencer Ponsonby-Fane. The latter's name will be revered as long as the club exists, and it is of interest to note that his successor, the Earl of Dartmouth, is known officially as the "Governor, first wicket down."

ITS 75th BIRTHDAY

This season the club celebrates, or rather completes, its seventy-fifth year. So quickly does time fly that it seems only a few short seasons since they met the Gentlemen of England at Lord's on the occasion of their jubilee. W. G. was in wonderful form then, and made the Zingari bowling look poor stuff. One slashing drive he made, which caused the ball to dance among the pavilion seats, was a feature of the game. Maybe it was partly on account of its seventy-fifth birthday that the club decided to issue a new volume to its members. The earlier publications were certainly interesting, but the one which has just appeared is the best of all.

It was a splendid idea to offer the Freedom of I. Z. to Lord Jellicoe, Sir David Beatty, Lord French, and Lord Haig, and the replies of those great men show most eloquently how coveted is such an honor. If the club had no other reason for being proud of its records and traditions, the receipt of the letters referred to would cause it to obtain lasting renown.

THEIR REPLIES

Thus, Sir David Beatty stated: "I shall with pride wear the riband of the order as a reminder that the work of the Navy was appreciated by the members of a club whose traditions, rules, and regulations are the standard for the conduct of every Englishman."

Lord Haig wrote: "The three great principles upon which the club has built its traditions have never proved their value more completely than during these four long years of war. They are worthy of our nation, which entered the war to keep its promise, which has preserved an even temper through ill-fortune and good, and, please God, will keep its wickets up till its promise has been redeemed. I shall wear no decoration with greater pleasure than the one your distinguished club has given me."

Lord French wrote: "I regard it as a very high honor and a very distinguished privilege to belong to I. Z. As a matter of fact, it was one of the greatest ambitions of my early youth. . . . I shall certainly keep your letter to be read in later times by those who come after me."

JELLICOE PLEASED

Lord Jellicoe, too, was as appreciative. "I can conceive no higher honor," he said, "than to be thought worthy of admission into the ranks of the splendid company of sportsmen who are included under the name of I. Zingari, whose principles are so fine and whose performances during the war have so fully acted up to those principles."

Did any other body ever receive such eloquent tokens of regard from such men? I. Zingari should be, and undoubtedly are, proud of such testimony. It would have been interesting if the letters had been reproduced in facsimile in the volume referred to. One hopes that the originals are in a safe place.

The book, of course, refers to the fact that Germany for her national colors has taken the red, black and gold of I. Z., and Lord Dartmouth, the Governor, remarks that it is possible that one of the conditions of Germany's reception into the League of Nations will be the renunciation of them. Let us hope it may prove so.

The final of the "Delaware" Cup and the shoot for the "Spectator's" Cup brought out a good number of competitors, but, with the exception of Read and Doremus, the shooting was not as good as usual.

Mr. Doremus won the "Spectator's" Cup with a score of 48 plus 2 making 50 in all. The "Delaware" Cup, which consisted of the best three shoots, including handicap, out of a series of 5 competitions of 40 birds each, was won by Mr. Gilson with a score of 122.

AERO CLUB OF AMERICA ISSUES BULLETIN ON DETAILS OF FOUR COMING INTERNATIONAL EVENTS

Indianapolis Chosen For Both National And World Balloon Contests; Aeroplane Race Takes Place In France On October 23

Dates for the various international aeronautical events and instructions to the pilots together with records for the past years are contained in the July bulletin of the Aero Club of America, which has just reached Mr. L. M. Bocker, secretary of the Aero Club of Shanghai.

The National Balloon Race and elimination contest for International Balloon Race will be held at Indianapolis on September 11, 1920. The International Balloon Race will be held at the same place on October 23. The International Aeroplane Race will take place in France on September 27, while the first Aerial Derby around the world is in the process of organisation.

With reference to the transportation of balloons and equipment, the club says:

"Pilots are requested to follow strictly the following instructions as regards the shipment of balloons and equipment by express.

"On landing telegraph immediately as follows:

The American Railway Express Co. 65 Broadway, New York and to The Aero Club of America, 297 Madison Ave., N. Y.

"Balloon———in National Balloon Race starting from Indianapolis landed——— Balloon and equipment will be delivered to you at Railroad Station———for shipment to——— Prompt shipment requested ——— Pilot."

QUICK HANDLING

"The express company will take the matter up immediately by telegraph and arrange for the quickest handling of the shipment possible.

Ernest Demuyter, the entry from Belgium in the International Balloon Race, has entered the contest for the Gordon Bennett International Cup Race representing the Aero Club of Belgium. His aide will be Albert Vleminox. The Balloon "Belgica" will be used, capacity 2000.200 cubic meters. Mr. Demuyter representing Belgium contested in the seventh annual Gordon Bennett Race held in 1912 at Stuttgart which was won by France, Mr. H. E. Honeywell one of the American Representatives winning third prize. Mr. Demuyter is a well-known aeronaut and has had great experience with military dirigibles and ballooning in Belgium. His able assistant has had almost an equal experience and the team is considered a strong one.

Past aeronautical events in the National Balloon races have been published by Augustus Post, secretary of the Aero Club of America, as follows:

1913, Kansas City.—H. E. Honeywell 914 miles, John Watts 650 miles, Albert Holz 449 miles, Paul McCullough 342 miles, John Berry 347 miles, G. L. Baumbaugh 342 miles, L. E. Custer 326 miles.

1913, Kansas City.—Ralph H. Upson 685 miles, John Watts 673 miles, H. E. Honeywell 658 miles; John Berry 616 miles.

RECORDS

1914, St. Louis.—R. A. D. Preston 301 miles, Arthur T. Atherholt 174 miles, Paul J. McCullough 171 miles, John Berry 167 miles, William F. Assman 147 miles, Jerome Kingsburg 140 miles, E. S. Cole 109 miles, John Watts 107 miles.

1915, Wichita, Kansas.—William F. Assman 363 miles, H. E. Honeywell 232 miles, Paul McCullough 67 miles, John Watts 19 miles.

1916, Muskogee, Okla.—H. E. Honeywell 520 miles, E. S. Cole 285 miles, William F. Assman 316 miles, John Berry 315 miles, Warren Rasor 239 miles, L. E. Custer 15 miles.

1917-1918.—No races were held on account of the war.

1919, St. Louis.—The race this year was most ably conducted by the Missouri Aeronautical Society under the direction of Major A. B. Lambert, with the following result:

Ralph Upson 1,150 miles,
H. E. Honeywell 1,100 miles,
E. S. Cole 1,045 miles.

AT ST. LOUIS

The same management also conducted at St. Louis one of the most interesting contests ever held in the United States and this was between the the army and navy. An official account follows: "The army and navy Balloon Race starting from St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 26, 1919, resulted in a victory for the army by a very close margin after being considered by the referees, Commander Z. Landsdowne and Major Charles J. Glidden, Major Lambert gave out the results, namely, Winner Captain E. Paul Phillips U. S. Army 491.8 miles, Commander Rafe Emerson U. S. Navy 486.4 miles, Ensign J. H. Stevens of the navy 479 miles, Lt. I. H. Coulter of the army 470 miles.

Below is the International Balloon Races Record:

Year	Winners	Country
1906	Lt. Col. Frank P. Lahm	America
1907	Oscar Erbsloh	Germany
1908	Col. Schaeck	Switzerland
1909	E. W. Mix	America
1910	Alan R. Hawley*	America
1911	Hans Fericke	Germany
1912	Maurice Bienaime	France
1913	Ralph H. Upson	America
1914
1915
1916	No race on account
1917	of the war.
1918
1919

*In 1910 Mr. Hawley's mileage was the greatest of record to that date, 1172 miles. His distance, however, was exceeded in 1912 by the French Pilot Bienaime, he covering 1361 miles. Mr. Hawley's aid was Mr. Augustus Post, Sec'y of the Aero Club of America.

The International Aeroplane Races' Record is as follows:

Year	Winners	Country
1909	Glenn H. Curtiss	America
1910	Claude Graham White	Great Britain
1911	C. T. Weymann	America
1912	Jules Vedrines	France
1913	Maurice Prevost	France

Subsequent contests not held on account of the war.

When Coffee Came to England

About three hundred years ago an English merchant named Edwards brought some coffee home with him from Smyrna. His friends so enjoyed the new and delicious beverage that they gave Edwards no peace.

Finally he opened a coffee house, which he put in charge of a servant to save himself from annoyance.

If you have a discriminating taste in coffee, we urge you to try our "Famous For Flavor" Coffee. It is served in the best homes of the city.

LEGION OF HONOR AWARDED TO COOK

M. Escoffier Has Been Chef At State Dinners In U. S. And Europe

Paris, July 3.—For the first time in its history the Legion of Honor has been granted to a man who made a world-wide reputation as a cook, and when the savants, Marshals, diplomats and noted foreigners hold their next reunion in Paris they will greet as a member of the order one who has tickled their palates and given them memories of succulent viands and delicious sauces.

The possessor of this distinction is M. Escoffier, who since the close of the Franco-Prussian War of 1870 has been attached in various capacities to leading Paris and London restaurants and hotels, as well as chef at state dinners in Spain, Germany, Italy, France and America on more than one occasion.

With his rise in prowess he has gained in wealth and now possesses one of the finest residences in the choicest district in Paris, filled with antique furniture, marbles, rare volumes and old masters. He has published two volumes, one dealing with cookery as applied to army life, the other a general guide to the cuisine and preparation of menus in which he has developed an admirable philosophy which might be imitated by housewives anxious to appease hungry mates.

"Menus to be perfect," says Escoffier, "must have a distinctive taste in composition, with considerable poetry in the alliance and choice of words. The lines of menus should be uneven but scattered as the poet disposes his most striking lines."

M. Escoffier was taken prisoner by the Germans at Metz in 1870, but William I. later called him to his private table and assured the chief that if his culinary powers had been known he should have been released at once. M. Escoffier considers this the highest praise he ever has had.

NEW BOY SCOUT MOVE

Boys' Camp To Be Established On The Aisne By Lorne W. Barclay

The National Educational Director of the Boy Scouts of America, Lorne W. Barclay, by invitation of the American Committee for Devastated France, will establish and be Director General of a camp school for the boys of the war devastated regions.

The school will be in the form of a boys' camp of large size, located on the estate of the Marquis de L'Aigle on the Aisne River, near Compeigne, on the edge of the greater battlefields, and will be the latest of the many activities of the American committee, of which former United States Ambassador to France, Myron T. Herrick, is President, Miss Anne Morgan, Vice President and Chairman of the Executive Committee, and Mrs. A. M. Dike, official director in charge of operations in France.

Many of the boys who will be in this great camp are orphans whom the war deprived of all relatives, and there will be others who have not been in school and have been practically without care since the beginning of hostilities in 1914.

Mr. Barclay, who is one of the most widely experienced men in the Scout movement and is known in nearly every State in the Union as an energetic worker in the promotion of scouting, has been given two months' leave of absence for this work as a further contribution by the Scouts of this country through the American Committee to the service being rendered unfortunates abroad, especially those in the sorely stricken portions of France.

"Hal" Fullerton, "Chief Grub Scout," whose great work during the war in increasing the food supply of farms and gardens will always be remembered, recently went to France under the auspices of the American Committee, where he has established a demonstration farm in the devastated district, with French Boy Scouts for his workmen, the object being to teach American scientific agriculture in an effort to speedily increase the food supply there.

"As a builder of physical efficiency, and morality as well, the superiority of the Boy Scouts of America program is generally recognised," said Mr. Barclay. "It is for the purpose of adapting and applying the American methods of scouting so far as possible to conditions in the devastated regions that we are going. It will be a work for the boys by the boys themselves. We are just going to show them how to go about scouting in the American style, especially in reference to outdoor activities, which have been developed here on a scale unknown in France or any other foreign country.

"Naturally the boys we are going to deal with over there, many of them very poor and without parents and having long been without adult leadership, will be the hardest kind of material to work on, but that will make it all the more interesting and worth while. We will divide the boys in the camp into troops and patrols following our American plan, under Scoutmasters and Patrol Leaders who are now French Boy Scouts, and teach them team play, sanitation, personal health, and all that makes for clean morals, and we will emphasise the many outdoor activities for which the Boy Scouts of America are noted, taking with us samples of all kinds of tents and paraphernalia for up-to-date camping to serve models to use in the camp school there."

Frank C. Irwin, who has been prominent in scouting for many years, accompanies Mr. Barclay as one of his assistants. Mr. Irwin was formerly Secretary of the Boy Scouts of Saskatchewan, Canada, also a Boy Scout delegate from Canada to the coronation of King George, and was the organizer and director for two years of the Boy Scouts of Mysore, India. Recently he has taken post-graduate work in Columbia University, and was Scoutmaster of a troop in Manhattan while studying there.

Another assistant with Mr. Barclay is Carlile Bolton-Smith, a First Class Boy Scout, whose home is in Memphis, Tenn. He is an undergraduate student at Amherst. His specialty in the Camp School in France will be aquatics, including swimming, life-saving and many forms of water sport new to that country. He will also be in charge of boxing, wrestling and similar lines of sport.

THINGS DOUGLASS SAID

Some Of His Wise Utterances On His Monument In Rochester

In St. Paul Street, not far from the New York Central Station and facing the busiest quarter of Rochester, stands the statue of Frederick Douglass. Although it is discolored by time, the extracts from Douglass's speeches inscribed on the pedestal are perfectly legible. The words are very remarkable and well deserve to be remembered.

On the right side of the pedestal we read: "I know of no soil better adapted to the growth of reform than American soil. I know of no country where the conditions for erecting great changes in the settled order of things, for the development of right ideas of liberty and humanity are more favorable than here in these United States."

On the left side of the pedestal we read: "Men do not live by bread alone. So with nations. They are not saved by distinction but by honesty, not by the gilded splendor of wealth but by the hidden treasure of manly virtue, not by the multitudinous gratification of the flesh but by the celestial guidance of the spirit."

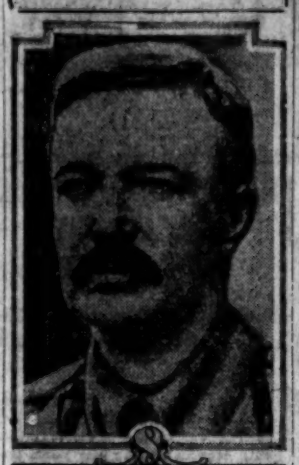
On the back of the pedestal we read: "The best defense of free American institutions is the hearts of the American people themselves." "One with God is a majority." "I know of no rights of race superior to the rights of humanity."

In these days, when individual liberty is menaced by the tyranny of the majority, those splendid words of his "one with God is a majority," should be written in letters of gold. Alexis de Tocqueville, in his book "Democracy in America," protested against the injustice of condemning any individual even by the action of the largest majority. James Russell Lowell wrote:

They are slaves who dare not be
In the right with two or three.

But it remained for Douglass to declare that even one man with God on his side constitutes a majority. Thought is not the appange of any individual. Whatever be men's difference of color their souls are white or black, according to their possession of virtue or the reverse.—Lusian in Rochester Post-Express.

British General Censured For Amritsar "Massacre"



General R.E.H. DYER

General R. E. H. Dyer, of the British Army, who was severely censured in the findings of the commission appointed by the British Government to investigate the causes of unrest in India and the attending disorders. The incidents investigated included the Amritsar "massacre" of April, 1919, in which more than 500 natives were killed and a thousand wounded when troops under the command of General Dyer opened fire with machine guns. The firing began when the natives were attending a meeting in a walled enclosure near Amritsar. The natives had no chance to escape and, it is alleged, the only reason more were not killed or wounded is that the soldiers' ammunition gave out. General Dyer was censured for ordering his troops to fire without warning and also for continuing the firing.

Nancy Passion Play Will Be Resumed

Famous Religious Festival For Charity On Grander Scale Than Ever

Paris, July 3.—Despite the efforts of the Germans to destroy by shellfire and bombs the Passion Theater at Nancy, the Abbe Petit, who sixteen years ago founded the theater among his parishioners of St. Joseph's Church, has announced that the world known religious festival would be reinaugurated this month on a scale grander than ever before.

Unlike Germany's Oberammergau, where the characters are paid as high as 12,000 marks a year from the profits obtained from tourists, the French people devote the entire receipts to charitable work in Paris and the Nancy district.

Through the generous assistance of friends the Abbe has been able to restore the partially damaged theater and replace the costumes, and a renewal of the sacred drama promises to attract visitors from all parts of Europe, as well as American tourists who may come from visits to the Lorraine battlefields nearby.

Christ's Passion, from the entry into Jerusalem to Calvary, is the theme presented with music by the Gregorian choir of St. Joseph's, the characters appearing between the scenes after the manner of the Greek theater for poetic commentary and hymns. Unlike many garish plays, the Abbe insists that the part of Christ must be portrayed by the humblest civilian. Although richer members of the congregation yearly seek the privilege, their spiritual director points out the necessity of the world realising humility as the chiefest Christian virtue.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent. or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent. or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."
J. E. SIMPSON, M. D.,
Chicago, Ill.

"Castoria is good for children and I frequent ly prescribe it, and always obtain the desired result."
F. GERALD BLATTNER, M. D.,
Buffalo, N. Y.

"A medicine so valuable and beneficial for children as your Castoria is deserves the highest praise. I find it in use everywhere."
J. S. ALEXANDER, M. D.,
Omaha, Neb.

"I have prescribed Castoria to families for several years. It is all right. Mothers like it, for children will take it without any trouble."
C. A. WILSON, M. D.,
St. Louis, Mo.

"Have used your Castoria on various occasions in suitable cases and have found it a palatable and efficient laxative, especially in the various diseases of childhood."
CHAS. EDWARD GARDINER, M. D.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a splendid remedy for children, known the world over. I use it in my practice and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children."
J. A. BOARMAN, M. D.,
Kansas City, Mo.

TSINAN WELCOMES AMERICAN SOLONS WITH MANY FETES

General Ma's Soldiers In Entertainment Of Governor's Guests

(China Press Correspondence)

Tsinan, Aug. 14.—The United States congressional party, coming from Tsian, arrived in Tsinan at 9 o'clock on Friday morning, August 13. Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, Shih Li-pen and representatives of the civil and military governors were at the station to receive and to welcome the Party. After a short address of welcome by the Foreign Commissioner the guests were taken through the city to see various points of interest. Military Governor T'ien Chung-yu gave a tiffin-banquet to the visitors and to all the American residents in Tsinan. At this tiffin Civil Governor Ch'u pointed out that the United States had always been most generous towards China, had always tried to help her get out of trouble; "but," said Mr. Ch'u, "this is not enough, you should help China to keep out of trouble by helping her to become so strong that she can protect herself."

After tiffin General Ma Liang's soldier-gymnasts entertained the guests for an hour; and at 5 o'clock the Tsinan Chamber of Commerce served tea and refreshments on the Ta Ming lake. In the evening the nine patriotic societies of Tsinan gave a banquet at the Ching Shang theater where sleight-of-hand performers, actors and a military band entertained the diners. The dominant note of the various speeches made here was the plea that in view of Japan's aggressions on the sacred soil of Shantung the great powers should inaugurate a policy of international justice in order to prevent another world conflagration. At one o'clock in the morning the Congressional Special left for Tientsin.

Yesterday's festivities, however, have given place to the sober things of today, when Civil Governor Ch'u Yin-kuang turned over his official seal to the Military Governor, T'ien Chung-yu, who will serve in the capacity of Acting Civil Governor until Mr. Ch'u's successor arrives. This successor will not be Peking's recent appointee, Ch'i Yao-shan of Chekiang, because the Shantungese absolutely refuse to accept an official who has been impeached by the assembly of another province.

General Ma Liang is in a state of semi-disgrace. Many of the soldiers of his Second Division of the Frontier Defense Force, openly called now "a Japanese army," have unceremoniously left him; and the General is half expecting to be cashiered any day.

The Commissioner of Finance and some other provincial officials have complicated the province's finances by the issuing of several millions of military notes, of which seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars have been put into actual circulation. By saddling the province with this "wild cat money," General Ma was enabled to take the Techow arsenal.

Shaft Planned For 'Bayonet Trench'

Memorial To Be Built At Verdun Battle Spot Says Cable

Paris, July 3.—Plans are well under way for the monument to be erected over the famous "Trench of the Bayonets" at Verdun, where in June, 1916, more than a thousand French soldiers gave their lives. Bodies remain standing in the trench today with rifles pointing skyward. Although souvenir hunting visitors have taken off the bayonets the French Government intends replacing these and guarding the sacred plot against further profane assaults.

The monument is a gift from an American, George Rand of New York, who after placing a check for a half million francs in the hands of the American Ambassador in Paris met death in an airplane flight across the Channel. Andre Ventre, chief of the historical monument section, immediately was asked to study the site and his report has been accepted and approved by the French Government.

Instead of placing an immense stone with a cross, as originally suggested, Ventre intends constructing a raised dais supported by artistic pillars, and from the center a majestic marble cross will arise, which will be visible to the entire countryside in the Thiaumont district.

Eat More Root Vegetables

By Mrs. Christine Frederick,
The Distinguished Authority on Household Efficiency.

WHAT are the "root vegetables?" Carrots and beets, parsnips and oyster-plant, knob celery, turnips white and red, kohlrabi and potatoes. Of course, every one uses carrots and onions, but I have met women who said they never ate oyster-plant, that most delicate of all the roots, and whose only knowledge of turnips is with a "boiled dinner." My chief idea today is to encourage the use of the same old roots in new ways, which will be the equivalent of finding many new foods.

Let's take carrots. Have you ever grated them, made them into a carrot pie or a salad or used them in a pudding? If not, you don't know carrots! A carrot custard is one of the most delectable of Winter dishes, with a flavor and food value all its own. Carrot cream soup deserves to be served once each week.

How do you cook parsnips? I hope not always with a wearisome cream sauce. Try them fried with a roast of meat in place of potatoes, or mashed and made into cakes or fritters, or, above all, candied like sweet potatoes in brown sugar. In any of these ways they make a dish fit for a king! As the basis for a cream soup they are a delicious and delicately flavored as well as nourishing dish.

Don't cut turnips into thick chunks and boil for four hours until red and coarse. Cut in small dice, cook in salted uncovered water and add a little cream and seasoning. Such a dish will easily be worth a quarter, yet you can get enough turnips for two meals for a dime. Use the white kind in thin slices, scalloped, with a white sauce, and bake them, or drop into a meat stew and serve floating in the gravy.

I forgot leeks, although I bought some bunches of them only the other morning. Perhaps you hardly know this humble member of the onion family. But the leek was known in Bible times, was honored on the table of kings and played a prominent part in ancient feasts.

You may see a small one sticking out of a bunch of "soup greens." But ask for the large ones, make the dealer go downstairs to his storeroom for them, and get the size that costs about five cents each. Cut the leek in half and tie together the waite ends. Simmer slowly and serve either hot with a white or tomato sauce, or cold as a salad with French dressing. A well-boiled leek, cold and covered with a flavored dressing, is the equal of asparagus and at a fourth its price.

Oyster-plant should be well scraped—not cut—and laid at once under water to which a few drops of lemon has been added to keep it white, as it becomes black on exposure to the air. Use the whole root if small or cut in sections. Serve with cream or melted butter or cold as a salad.

Oyster-plant makes quite a wonderful and tasty soup, too, and one enjoyed by children and invalids. Just rub the cooked root through a coarse sieve and combine with a white sauce.

Beets deserve wider use. They can be eaten hot and whole, or sliced hot or diced and served with a white sauce. This last may seem an odd way, but it is a very good one. Pickled and spiced they serve to touch up any Winter salad and lend zest to cold meats. Use mild vinegar, add whole cloves and peppers and a taste of cardamon. Let the beets lie covered in this.

It seems that only the Russians have fully appreciated the possibilities of beets. Their most famous soup, "borsch," of which I have spoken before, is made of pared raw beets cut into juliennes and cooked in meat stock.

Also try slicing the beets when hot, cut into juliennes, and combining with equal parts of cooked pease or carrots as a combination vegetable.

As I write this sweet potatoes are in their prime, and as an energy food for cold days cannot be excelled. They furnish the body a high amount of fuel. They are best baked, as this removes the excess water and perfects the cooking of the starch. But if well boiled and drained, then pared and later scalloped or made in some such form, they are the most acceptable of root vegetable dishes. Candied with brown sugar they are fit for the gods and nothing could be more suitable for the Thanksgiving dinner. Grilled sweets with bacon or poached egg are delicious breakfast novelties, toothsome and crisp.

I have spoken so often about knob celery that pretty soon some one will accuse me of owning a plantation of it. But I keep talking about it because I find so few tables know it. They keep on the same round of corn and peas and tomatoes, and never realize that the humblest roots make such delicious dishes. Use it plain boiled, in dice or sliced or as a salad or in place of real celery in any salad. Cook the roots before paring and the work will not be so wasteful.

Onions, of course, come in the root class. What of Bermudas, those immense onions from the southern islands which have the mild and tempting flavor? Just plain sliced and covered with dressing they form a Winter salad, or cut out the centres, boil, stuff with bread crumbs and a forcemeat and bake in their own liquor. Casserole onions, thus made, are a fit addition to any dinner menu. Indeed, if rightly made they will be meat, starch and vegetable all in one dish.

The old idea that onions are difficult of digestion is, like many other old tales, not true. If the onion is cooked in several waters, masticated well and not eaten with the wrong foods it is as delicate and easy to digest as any other vegetable.

The last two months of the year is just the time to get the best out of the root vegetables. Later they become withered, dry and woody. Now when just dug they are plump and fine. Save your canned vegetables for later and investigate now the merits of the humble root vegetables.

"Now again comes another ten minutes of massage with the cold cream."
Photograph Posed by MISS GRACE DARLING at CAMPBELL STUDIO

After a Journey

By Lina Cavalieri
The Most Famous Living Beauty.

IF my plans for the day include a long auto ride I must first prepare my complexion for the ordeal. Before going out I massage the face with cold cream and dust it carefully with rice powder. This fortifies the most delicate skin against any whirlwind of dust and smoke which it may encounter.

When I return I then make special preparations to cleanse the skin very thoroughly. For this reason I get out my steaming materials. Into my stationary washbowl I pour two quarts of boiling water and one ounce of tincture of benzoin. I bend forward and place my face as close to this as possible.

In order to get the best effect from this steaming I wrap about my head a towel and swathe the towel—a big Turkish one—about my shoulders and the edge of the bowl, so that no steam can escape. So I remain until I feel my face drips with perspiration and until I am nearly suffocated by the steam. Then, sitting up straight, I dab one of the linen squares about my face and cool it by a hand bath of rose water or eau de cologne.

If I find that the trip has left my skin tanned and freckled to an unusual degree I apply this: One wineglassful of rosewater, fifteen drops of peroxide of hydrogen.

I bathe the face with this preparation and leave it on the skin for fifteen minutes, then remove it by massaging the face with some good cold cream that I am sure is pure, or else sponge it liberally with the rosewater alone. The peroxide is rather drastic and should only be used in emergencies.

When the day is over and I am ready to retire I must think again of my complexion. For the first time, after I have returned from the trip out of doors, I really wash my face.

First it has its bath of soap and water. I use plenty of soap, but make a lather of it in the bowl, instead of placing it directly on my face. Plunging my hands into the soapy water, I bathe my face with my hands. There is nothing softer than the palms of a woman's hands. Nor do I find it necessary to use any anything else. They are softer than silk, and because they are the softest objects I know I prefer to bathe the delicate skin of my face with them.

A sponge is unsanitary and the wash-cloth is little better than a harboring place for germs.

After the warm water face-bath I rinse the face with cool, not cold, water. Cold water is too severe in its effect on the skin. I then wipe the face thoroughly dry.

Now comes another ten minutes of massage with the cold cream. Then to bed and sweet, restful sleep, for I feel I have done to my complexion the duty I owe it. I owe it but one more, to sleep for eight hours in a room where the windows are as wide open as possible, my bed being out of the draught and myself well covered with blankets, for to be cold is to commit a crime against the complexion.

One other precaution I must take, if I see, when I get up in the morning, any little blemishes upon my face. It is a simple remedy, but efficacious.

Put a handful of starch in the morning bath. Then when night comes again spread over the face a paste made thus: One tumbler half full of starch and the remainder filled with water. Stir to a thick paste and apply evenly.

It is well to remember when you are enjoying the delights of a motor ride that dust is one of the worst enemies of beauty. It settles in a dim, dingy veil upon the face, causing it to look ill-kept; in a word, dirty. Do not let this fact spoil your pleasure in the trip, but keep in your mind the importance of removing this grime as soon as you return to the house.

An easy way to keep the face cleansed from dust is to keep always on your dresser or toilet shelf a bottle of olive oil and a companion bottle of witch hazel. As soon as you come in pass some cotton or a bit of cloth that has been moistened in the oil over the face. Dusting on a little rice powder will take off that greasy look and help you to make a presentable appearance before your friends. No woman wants to have that disagreeable "shine" upon her skin, because that detracts from her refinement and daintiness.

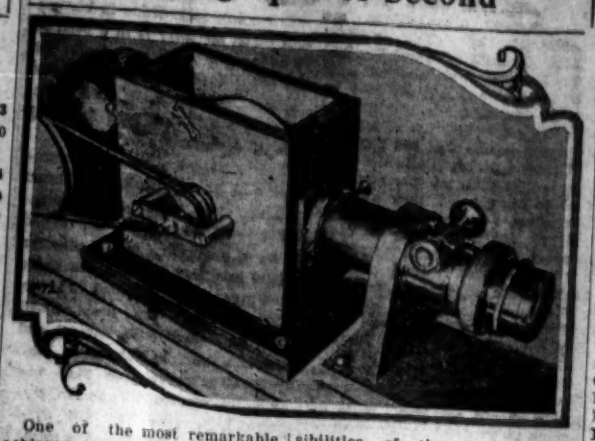
Camera Takes Fifteen Thousand Photographs A Second



One of the most remarkable achievements of modern science is that recently accomplished by Dr. L. Bull, sub-director of the Marley Institute of Paris. Dr. Bull has perfected a motor driven camera which takes approximately 15,000 motion picture photographs a second. By means of this terrifically rapid process actual photographs of projectiles in flight have been successfully taken, and the possibilities of the invention are almost unlimited. Photographs of a rising bullet from time it left the muzzle of the gun until it struck an object have been made. An idea of the speed of the camera can be had by comparing the speed of an ordinary motion picture camera, which can take sixteen pictures a second. The photograph shows the motor driven camera and the cylinder for driving the film.

Zulu Bishop's Appeal Brings Gem Shower

Anglo-Catholics Give Personal Ornaments When He Calls For Missionary Fund

London, July 2.—Extraordinary scenes were witnessed at Albert Hall yesterday, where the Bishop of Zululand presided over the Anglo-Catholic Congress. At his suggestion seventy-two hours' effort is being made to raise $250,000 for foreign missions, and the response was almost embarrassing in its enthusiasm.

Men and women crowded round the stewards and took rings from their fingers, watches from their pockets and bracelets from their wrists and dropped them into the haversacks that were used as collection bags. Many went up to the platform with large parcels which when unpacked were found to contain leather cases in which were tourquoise brooches and necklaces, diamond and pearl pendants, silver salvers and personal jewelry of every description.

The mass of watches, chains, pencil cases and other articles that had been given filled two big tables on the platform at the afternoon session, and by the time the great labor mass meeting opened in the evening the heap had grown and flowed over to a third table.

An expert valuer was sent for during the afternoon, but he found it impossible at first glance to hazard even a guess at the total value of the collection. It may tentatively be put, however, at several thousand pounds.

MUNICIPAL NOTIFICATION

No. 2715.

SHANGHAI MUNICIPAL COUNCIL 6 PER CENT. STERLING LOAN, 1920.

Amount £750,000

Price of Issue £100 per cent.

UNDER the authority of Resolution VII passed at the Annual Meeting of Ratepayers on April 7, 1920, the Council hereby invites applications for Bearer Debentures (with coupons attached) in the 6 percent. Sterling Loan of 1920, which is issued on the following terms:—

(1) Debentures to Bearer, with Sterling interest coupons attached, will be issued at £100 percent in denominations of £1,000 £500, £100 and £50.

(2) The Debentures of this issue will bear interest at the rate of 6 percent per annum, payable on June 30 and December 31 in each year by sterling demand draft on London at par, or in silver (local currency) at the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation's Shanghai current demand buying rate on London on date of presentation of the relative coupon. The first payment of interest will be made on December 31, 1920.

(3) Applications, accompanied by payment in full, will be received by the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, No. 12 The Bund, on and after May 1, up to and including June 30, 1920, the Council reserving to itself the right of closing the subscription lists on any day previous to June 30, 1920, by Notification in the Municipal Gazette and Public Press of Shanghai.

(4) Payment on application will be accepted in Silver (local currency) at the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation's current selling T.T. rate on London and will bear interest from date of payment, or in Sterling by T.T. or Demand Draft on London. Interest on payments made in Sterling will only accrue from the date on which the relative remittances are received by the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, London.

The cost of all telegrams incurred through payment by Sterling T.T. shall be paid by the applicant.

Payment will be acknowledged by Banker's Receipt pending issue of the Debentures.

In the event of any applicant not being allotted the full amount applied for, the amount overapplied for will be repaid in full, plus interest at the rate of 6 percent per annum from the date payment was received in Shanghai or London to the due date of repayment in Shanghai, as notified to the applicant by special notice from the Council.

(5) The Loan will be redeemed at par on June 30, 1950, but may be redeemed by the Council in whole or in part on June 30, 1930, and/or on any subsequent date or dates on which the half-yearly interest is payable, subject to the Council giving six calendar months' notice in the Municipal Gazette and Public Press of Shanghai. In the event of any partial redemption of the loan the numbers of the Debentures to be redeemed will be decided by drawing. The numbers of such drawn Debentures will be notified in the Municipal Gazette and Public Press of Shanghai not less than three months prior to the date of repayment.

Application forms can be obtained on and after May 1, from the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, No. 12 The Bund, or from the Treasurer and Comptroller, Finance Department, 24a Kiangse Road, to whom all enquiries should be addressed.

The Dictator

(From a Correspondent)

JAPAN. "The Dictator" has set up for itself its own interpretation of international law. The Dictator lays down flatly that what is right for Japanese officials to do is absolutely wrong for private nationals to do. Japan allocates to itself the right, through the officials accredited to a friendly state, to harbor its friends, the outlawed criminals of that friendly state, while it denies the right to a British merchant in China, not in Japan or in territories to which Japan has any justifiable claim, to entertain and give domicile to his Korean friends and associates.

Japan pretends to be in sympathy with, and be a subscriber to the tenets of the League of Nations. This can be verily believed in so far, and only in so far, as the League of Nations will be a direct benefit to Japan and possibly curtail the priviliges of other nations. Where however the League of Nations and its tenets conflict with the flagrant ambitions of Japan, this country will be and intends to be a law unto itself. There can and must be no admission of Japan into the League of Nations until a regime of honesty is enthroned in the empire of the Eastern Seas.

Japanese officials of the present day travesty the truth. The League of Nations can have nothing to do with such a people, who by their own actions have placed themselves without the pale.

What right unless that of the usurping dictator, has Japan to say who shall and who shall not visit Mr. Shaw's house in Chinese territory? What right has Japan to say what passengers Mr. Shaw shall carry on his steamers to a Chinese port? The British Government might with equal reason arrest in Canada the owner of an American steamship line because he carried an Indian or Egyptian agitator from one American port to another. There is no such thing as international law if such things are possible. But Japan has given the lie direct to its own claims in its Shaw action by its attitude of protecting under legation sanctity its friends, the notorious Anfu leaders whom it has bribed to betray the interests of a state with which Japan is supposed to be on friendly terms.

Japan has gone just a step too far in its action with regard to Mr. Shaw but this overstepping of the mark is only the result of continuous testing as to how far Japanese authority (save the mark) in Manchuria can insult American and British citizens and reduce the prestige of these countries to a minimum in the eyes of the Chinese. The passport incident was only an excuse which made it easier for Japan to insult Britain through one of its most efficient traders in the east. Had Mr. Shaw possessed his passport he would have been arrested just the same since the decree for his arrest had gone forth. Before behind his passport Mr. Shaw might have thought himself safe in any part of Korea but his passport would have availed him nothing as instanced by certain quarantine clearance papers held by the British Master of a ship at Tsingtao and these clearance papers had been issued by the Japanese quarantine officials themselves.

No; something would have been ingeniously discovered wrong with Mr. Shaw's passport by the Japanese, who desired to "kidnap" him and he would have been kidnapped just the same.

Kidnapped may be a strong word to use regarding the actions of officials of any country but it is not too strong a word to use in connection with the Dictator of the Far East which has kidnapped Korea and is making every attempt to kidnap Northern Saghalein; has kidnapped the Shantung Railway and Tsingtao where an intolerable dictatorship has been set up; is attempting by every method possible to kidnap the whole of Manchuria and Eastern Mongolia.

The two most recent actions of the "Embryo Dictator" are sufficient to make all interested powers have pause to think and consider where they stand in this oriental game of "heads I win tails you lose." Either one is good enough to call Japan's dictatorial bluff. The Shaw incident undoubtedly is the most aggressive piece of international impertinence practiced in modern times, even surpassing the Russian bluffs of twenty years ago in Manchuria, when Russia claimed to prohibit any one traveling in China's Manchurian territories without Russian sanction.

In the end it will be found that the Legation protection afforded by Japan to its friends the Anfu scoundrels and robbers is no whit a less dangerous menace to the interests of all China's Allies and friends as it predicates the assumption of an open dictatorship by Japan in China proper as well as Manchuria. China's Allies and friends cannot permit these two important incidents to pass unchallenged. If Japan sees the Allies of China are united and determined to oppose Japan's aggression in China then The Dictator of the East will climb down. The Allies' support of China against Japanese aggression has been only half-hearted though admittedly sincere as far as it goes. It must go further! It must be whole-hearted and it must be given now at a time when China is making every attempt to put its own house in order.

Japan must be made to withdraw from Shantung entirely and from Manchuria with the exception of the leased territory in the Liaotung. As long as Japan's soldiery and unauthorised Japanese officials are permitted to dominate Shantung and Manchuria the Allies of the League of Nations are giving the lie direct to their own professions regarding the League and the rights of small nations. Let the component parts of the League show their bona fides in this matter of Japanese Dictatorship in the East and the adherents of the League will increase manyfold.

Japan owes more than a mere apology to Mr. Shaw and to Great Britain. Japan owes infinitely more to China, and the powers for its abuse of the sanctity of the Legation area by its harboring therein criminals not political refuges from justice but men who have beyond doubt sold the interests of their country to Japan. It is natural that Japan should desire to protect these criminals so as to cover the tracks of her own duplicity but let her be warned that no protection of the Anfu arch traitors will prevent the whole Japanese intrigue being made public and world wide property. The longer Japan protects these men the greater will be shown her own incriminating position and her deliberate betrayal of her ally, Great Britain, will be shown to be all the more shameful.

"Now I've read your stuff, Dr. Straton" he said, "but what I want is something about your personal habits and beliefs. What do you think about drinking and smoking?"

"I can best answer that with another question," said Dr. Straton. "Suppose you were on a sick bed. Suppose in fact you were dying and asked for spiritual consolation and I was summoned. Suppose, then, that I came into your room blowzy from dancing, and reeking from cigarettes and cocktails. What would you think?"

"I'd think 'here comes a friend'" said the reporter.

CHINA'S OPPORTUNITY

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir: In a paper that has China's interests at heart and that is widely read not only by foreigners but by Chinese as well, may I call the attention of my countrymen to the present political status in China and the momentous opportunity before them? I think most of your readers are well versed in the succession of events in China since the formation of the Republic nine years ago, so I shall avoid recapitulating them.

In your columns one often reads of the general satisfaction at the downfall of the Anfuites; but at the same time for very good reasons there exists great doubt with regards to subsequent betterment of the administration in China.

Men like Wu Pei-fu and Feng Yu-hsiang are undoubtedly good and sincere in their purposes; but others with greater power now controlling the Government in Peking have dreadful pasts and have not proved themselves trust worthy. If the Chinese nation at large still stand indifferently "watching the fire across the river," as they have done in the past, there is no doubt that China will soon see troubles even worse than the last ones and herself the victim of covetous neighbors.

Hitherto many excuses have been offered for the lethargy of the Chinese people. Some said the backwardness of education was responsible for it, whilst others blamed officials and militarists oppressing them. But whatever might have been the cause of their inaction, we would like to know what they would do, if they had the opportunity. Have they a definite plan or are they ready to consider one? It seems to me there is now a unique opportunity, but the Nations as a whole is at a loss. General Wu Pei-fu and his friends are championing the cause of the people, they have appealed to the country for a National Citizens' Convention to be constituted by the representatives elected directly by the people from their own districts.

The author of the movement has suggested that the various educational, agricultural, industrial and commercial bodies in the large towns all over the country should each elect one representative, and out of the total number of representatives one fifth chosen as members of the Convention. These men will have for their work the solution of all the outstanding questions concerning the consolidation of the Republic, such as the permanent union of the North and South, the framing of an enduring constitution, the legislation of electoral laws and other questions of equal importance. From this it can readily be seen, the Convention is endowed with great power, and if its decisions properly represent the wishes of the Nation as they ought to do, it will mark the debut of democratic government in China.

Since General Wu made his call to the Nation, the people, it is a pity to say, have made very meager response. Indeed the students' and lawyers' associations of a few centers have already expressed their approval of the Convention but students and lawyers alone will not make it a success and mere disunited approval without real support will at best only make it a fiasco. Already the political usurpers and the arch-militarists are planning for its natural death, failing which they would probably resort to force to impose their selfish designs upon the people. If General Wu and his associates are determined to defend their conviction, open hostility may ensue. Then shall we mighty citizens fold our arms and watch the outcome of the struggle which concerns our own welfare, nay our very existence? If we do and see our dearest cause decay (which is then sure to happen), shall we blame ourselves for being negligent or shall we spend the rest of our lives in railing at the traitors? Do we consider ourselves having shoulders broad enough to bear the infamy for the misery of posterity?

Now, compatriots, arise and rally round our sacred cause and let us prove to the world that we deserve to exist as a great, independent nation!

To begin with, let us not underestimate the magnitude of the task we are going to undertake. It is not easy work to save a sinking vessel; but it is infinitely more difficult to rescue a tottering country. It is by far simpler to conduct an election for a students' conference than to manage a national citizens' convention? What is the scope of the work to be done by the Convention? Which are the methods and rules to be followed in putting the whole scheme into practice? How many representatives are to be sent from the different districts? What kind of people are qualified to elect and to be elected? How can the financial needs be met? What measures will be taken in case of government interference? Scores of questions of a similar character must be settled first, before a successful convention can be held.

In order not to bore the readers with too much detail in this kind of correspondence, I propose to treat only a few salient points:

(1) Official Interference vs. Popular Unity. Since General Wu Pei-fu despatched his circular telegram advocating a national citizens' convention, the chief officials in both Peking and Canton have lost no time in expressing their disapproval, whilst the different popular organisations are conspicuous by their suicidal silence. Probably General Wu had secured considerable support from other enlightened military men before he launched his scheme, but of what avail will his efforts be, when the people will not respond?

If they continue indifferent until they realise their mistake and then rush to his support, they will find themselves hopelessly disorganised and too late to repent. In order to avert this deplorable possibility the people must respond now not in hundreds or thousands but in millions. It hardly requires reiteration that official and military opposition is sure to increase with time.

How to check their illegal interference is the first question the people should consider. It is not enough to bombard the Government with telegrams, which (although it forms a suitable opening of the campaign) the authorities can easily ignore. Of late the students have tried to persuade the Government to follow their wishes by sending deputations to Peking, which is about the most embarassing thing the officials and militarists have yet encountered.

Why should the students be the only class that utilises a right that citizenship entails? If they drove out three traitors fifteen months ago, why cannot the whole nation now impose their masterly will on a government that represents nobody? The people have the power and the means and it only depends upon themselves to assert their inalienable rights as citizens of the Republic of China. Neither is this the first time they have tried their strength; ever since history has been known to us, through all the periods of tyranny and militarism the wishes of the people finally prevailed. The present case should form no exception; only they must keep the age old watch word "unity"—unity of heart, unity of purpose, unity of method and unity of strength.

(2) Prevention of Treachery and the exclusion of Parties. In a contest of this kind treachery is the only weapon our enemy can appeal to; so too much care cannot be taken against it. Let us distinguish between friends and foes, for as an old proverb has it "ten men cannot undo the damage done by one." All suspicious elements must be promptly eradicated and all possibilities of corruption and bribery thoroughly extirpated from the movement; otherwise the misdeeds of the bogus parliament and the defunct Anfu Club will yet be once more staged before us through our own mismanagement.

It cannot be gainsaid, that all the political factions already formed and those forming will seize the present opportunity for their own selfish ends. Already the so called Ken Sheh and Ken Chen Club are busily engaged in gathering together the Anfu debris to form political groups, that bid fair to continue the treacherous policy of their predecessors. Dozens of others are doing the same whilst the people remain defenseless.

If we want to see a real national citizens' convention doing all that we intend it to do, the first step towards success is to leave no stones unturned in our effort to exclude these political gamblers. It should be agreed upon by all, that no parties or factions shall be tolerated in the Convention, and the only governing factor shall be a spirit for advancing the welfare of the people.

(3) Regulations and Discipline. Although China has been an unconsciously democratic nation for scores of generations, electoral and parliamentary life is still in its infancy. During the last nine years assemblies, provincial as well as national, have again and again failed to perform their offices through mere ignorance of and defiance to regulations and discipline. Of late there has, however, been wonderful progress in the organisation and maintainance of societies and clubs as well as an astounding growth of public opinion. All this forebodes the eventual success of the Convention. Nevertheless, the latter is quite a new thing; in order to avoid confusion and dispute the scope of its work should be defined and strict rules regarding elections, etc. should be laid down, accepted and enforced.

The next question that naturally arises is, whom shall we appoint to make such rules, on this point the views of many will differ; but we are at least agreed, that these men should represent the public as far as possible; they should form a committee under the leadership of some one possessing the respect and confidence of the Nation—somebody like Dr. C. T. Wang, for instance, whom the people have found satisfactory at the Versailles Peace Conference, and who is free from party prejudice. As members of the Committee, the presidents of the existing provincial assemblies may be appointed with the express understanding, that they will not be eligible as candidates in the coming election. In this way a great deal of unnecessary time and trouble can be saved.

(4) Convention vs. Parliament. Many people are now asking, why do we not have a new parliament instead of convention to settle our outstanding questions, seeing it would be much easier to follow the the electoral practice already established? Here is the very point that concerns the justification of the Convention. There is a great difference between an ordinary parliament and such a convention in both the method of election and the sort of members. A parliament, as generally understood, is closely connected with party politics; but with China in her present state, no party is in a position to settle her vital questions. On the other hand, with the different parties intriguing against one another, the Nation runs the fatal risk of destruction.

The National Citizens' Convention will be composed of unbiased citizens, free from party temptations and fetters; its acts ought to be a preventive and a cure for future mischief done in the name of Parliament. Through it, in days to come, the people will learn to supervise Parliament and therefore the administration. Also by the legal provisions they will lay down, treason will be rendered almost impossible. Not until these objects are attained, no healthy and democratic government can be established in China.

(5) Let there be no shirkers. There are a good many people who still reserve their approval of the Convention through sheer want of courage. They honestly believe a citizens' convention is the only means by which China can regain her stability; but they fear the opposition of several groups of satraps. Now let them ask themselves, whether it is not true, that as long as this fear exists, there is no salvation for China in view.

Let us suppose several robbers broke into a man's house; besides taking possession of his treasures, they damaged the house and kicked his children about. After expressing their intention to stay, they made his wife their servant. Would any sensible person tolerate this sort of things to go on day after day, nay year after year? Can he go about as usual, taking his meals in comfort, and going for constitutionals at ease? One day a friend called and said: "I am awfully sorry for the plight of your family and I shall be glad to do my best to help you." But to the latter's great consternation and disappointment, the poor man replied, that he only could not accept his assistance; but even preferred not to consider it. Let him remember God only helps those who help themselves; salvation will only come to him when he is ready to do his share. China as a nation is in the same circumstances. Now is the time for those who have the country's interests at heart to strike. No matter whether we succeed this year, next year or even later, it is our bounden duty to do our best to put our house in order.

Great changes are coming; probably within a few months we shall see a series of contests around the capital and elsewhere. There can be no doubt which side will win. The side possessing the good will of the people will win. But if any lasting good is to be derived from these struggles, the citizens must take the matter into their own hands. The reshaping of China and the Far East depends upon them. They must wake up to their responsibility and perform their mission as a great nation.

If your readers think I am wrong, I shall be glad to be corrected; but if they think I am right, then it is time for them to do their share, if they are not already doing it.

Enclosing my card and thanking you for your valuable space.

Yours truly,
M. T. T.

Talk With Lenin At The Kremlin

Mr. Ben Turner has had a talk with Lenin in the Kremlin. Mr. Turner was a member of the British Labor Delegation to Russia, and writes in the Telegraph:

"Lenin was very free and open. The picture I had got of him was that of a ferocious mouth and face. I had pictured him, therefore, as a short-chinned, black-bearded man, with a cruel mouth. That was the impression I had received. He was nothing of the sort. He is a medium-sized man of about 12st. weight, looking his 50 years but no more. His chin has a short beard of a sandy color, quite different from that I had pictured him. He has a hearty laugh, although I should say he can laugh desperately as well.

"He argues keenly, frankly, and openly, but without heat and by cold logic. I should say he is a very able man, a dogmatic man—a man with a purpose and a cold, hard, matter-of-fact policy that he understands."

Your Baby

The average weight of a baby at birth is seven pounds. During the first week after birth there is usually no gain in weight, and there may be a slight loss. At the end of two weeks the average baby should weigh seven pounds and six ounces and should gain eight ounces a week for the next two weeks, so that when one month old he weighs eight pounds and six ounces. For the first two months a normal infant gains from six to eight ounces a week. For the third month he gains from four to six ounces a week, and thereafter from three to four ounces weekly.

This regular increase in weight, as determined by the weekly weighing, is the indication that baby's food is not only agreeing with him and satisfying his hunger, but that it is also meeting his growth requirements.

General formulae must of necessity be written for the average baby and may not be entirely satisfactory for your baby does not gain properly and remain well, take it to your doctor, who may make the necessary change. Take this paper along with you so the doctor may know what and how you have been feeding.

A new born baby needs very little food for the first day or two. The first feedings should be made of one ounce of milk to two or three ounces of water and no sugar. No food substance other than cool boiled water should be given except by the direction of the physician.

INTERVALS OF FEEDING

After the first day, a weak baby is fed at two-hour intervals during the day and twice during the night at 10 p.m. and 2 a.m. A strong baby may be fed at three-hour intervals during the day with two feedings at night.

At one week the average child requires 15 ounces of diluted milk daily. To 5 ounces of milk add 10 ounces of water and 1½ tablespoonfuls of sugar of milk.

Dextrimaltose ½ to 1 teaspoonful, may be added to each feeding bottle instead of using sugar of milk as stated. This total quantity is given in seven feedings at three-hour intervals during the day and two feedings at night.

At three months the child will require about 32 ounces at diluted milk daily. To 16 ounces of milk add 16 ounces of water and three level tablespoonfuls of sugar of milk. Dextrimaltose may be used in the proportion 1 teaspoonful to each feeding bottle instead of sugar of milk. This is given in six feedings at three hour intervals during the day and one feeding at night about 10 o'clock. The 2 a.m. feeding is discontinued at the third or fourth month.

At six months the average baby will require 36 ounces of diluted milk. To 24 ounces of milk add 12 ounces of water or barley water and 3 even tablespoonfuls of sugar of milk. This is given if five feedings during the day, the night feeding being discontinued.

At nine months average child requires 40 ounces daily. To 30 ounces of milk add 10 ounces of water or barley water and 3 even tablespoonfuls of sugar. This is given in five feedings.

SOME HEALTHY DRINKS

Boil a pint of water every morning and put in a clean bottle. Keep in a cool place. Offer the baby plenty of water between feedings, beginning with one-half ounce twice a day during the first few days after birth. The quantity should be gradually increased until the infant is taking from 5 to 6 ounce of water daily.

It must be remembered that the infant cannot ask for water and that he is apt to become thirsty more often during the Summer months than in Winter.

After baby is six months old barley water may be used to dilute milk instead of plain water. Add one-half level tablespoonful of barley flour to one pint of water and cook for twenty minutes. As it boils, keep adding enough water to make one pint, strain and cool. At six months one and one-half even tablespoonfuls of barley may be used, cooked in eight ounces of water.

Not later than one month after being put on the bottle, or at any time from three months of age up, the infant should be given orange juice, beginning with one tablespoonful mixed with an equal quantity of cooled boiled water and gradually increasing the quantity to two to three tablespoonfuls. The best time to give orange juice is just before the bath in the morning. Strained tomato juice may be given in like proportion when oranges are not available. The use of these juices will prevent scurvy.

At six months the baby is beginning to be able to digest starch; therefore at this time small amounts of barley or oatmeal water may be given with the milk.

WHEN THE TEETH APPEAR

When the teeth begin to appear a cracker or a piece of zwieback may be allowed. In addition to this, a little cereal jelly without sugar may be given once a day, preferably in the morning.

At nine months a baby may be given a half cup of plain bouillon, or beef or chicken broth, or vegetable soup daily. He should have a small piece of crisp toast, zwieback or crust of bread on which to chew immediately after each feeding.

During the early months of infancy the baby's diet should consist wholly of milk. Since there is no perfect substitute for mother's milk a mother should always try to nurse her baby. The best known substitute for mother's milk is cow's milk, which contain's practically all the food elements necessary for growth.

There are many patent foods offered for sale, but as a rule they are expensive and have a tendency to make fat babies rather than strong babies. While they may be used for a short time, no baby should be fed on them exclusively.

On The Roof of the World

The breeze on the roof of the World affects the fur of the Tibetan Fox. The result is long heavy lustrous Fur. The locality here in some places more than 15,000 feet above the level of the sea, produces fox coats of long dense downy fur and over-hair of exquisite fineness and beauty, and in instances of great value. Only the prime skins are selected for you and no skin sent out less than 45 inches in length pelt and tail. You can have one of these Tibetan Fox skins by sending a Chinese Post Office Money order for $25 to Mr. Elly Widler, Ta Tsing-lu, Szechwan Province, and he will immediately mail you one of these specially selected Tibetan Fox Skins.

Signals

BY ANGELA MORGAN

Star white
Daisy on the dim edge of day,
What is the wistful thing you yearn to say
Before you swoon from sight
In the engulfing night?
What is the fragile wish, the dim sigh
You breathe to passers by?

Firefly
Signalling all who pass—
Elfin glow in the grass,
Feeble sputter against the sky—
What is the wireless message you would send
To foe or friend
At day's end?

Mist blue
Mountain dreaming against the cloud,
Why does the silence hooding you
Signal to me aloud?
Why does the lofty stillness where you dwell
Say more to me than any voice may tell
Or any volume spell?

Sad white
Womanly face on the edge of the crowd,
Out of your eyes the glance of the spirit proud,
Deep in your wounded soul the will to fight . . . . .
Sudden face of a stranger, swiftly fled . . . . .
How have you helped my soul to win its battles red,
Though not a word was said!

Sunlight For Malaria

Dr. G. Viale reports to Policlinico (Rome) that cases of long rebellious malaria improve rapidly when the nude trunk is exposed to the sunlight for several hours after each dose of quinine.

'Dalton's Cat' Impressed Dr. Keen

When Dr. W. W. Keen studied physiology, in 1860, the experiments of Claude Bernard on sections of the cervical sympathetic nerve were modern history, and in Dalton's Physiology, in which this experiment was described, there was a picture of the Cheshire cat with one pupil wide and the other contracted. The picture, says the Journal of the American Medical Association, was stored in the back of Dr. Keen's head through his field service during the Civil War. In 1863 he was assigning officer at the Christian Street Hospital in Philadelphia. He was signing his name to a paper when he became conscious of a person at his elbow. He looked up and started.

"By George, you're Dalton's Cat," he thought to himself, then—

"Where were you wounded," he asked the man.

The man pointed to his neck.

In 1866, when Dr. Keen went to Paris, he visited Claude Bernard and gave him a report of the case. The great physiologist rose out of his chair in excitement and delight. It was the first confirmation in man of his experiment on the cat.

Siccawei Weather Reports

15.—The typhoon, after recurving a little, appears to be called back, in the direction of the Loochoos, by the increasing anticyclone of the Bonin. The narrow depression of SW Japan has grown deeper on Shikoku and the Inland sea. The period of Northerly monsoon continues on the Yellow sea; thanks to it we enjoy once more a fine and cooler day at Shanghai.

16.—Pure atmosphere, and fine, cool weather (the minimum 69°6 has never been so low since the 1st of July). Constant Northerly breezes. Pressure higher than the average.

Furnishing Problems.

Consciously or unconsciously in the furnishing of your home, you strive for harmony and do not always obtain pleasing results in every room.

Many people fail in their color selection of the floors and the walls.

The most beautiful furniture will lose half its charm, against a background of ugly wall-paper or ill-chosen rugs.

Expense is not a factor in the cost of them, quietness in colour and unobtrusiveness in design are the prime requisites. Our experience in the solution of your furnishing problems will give you pleasure and economy.

'DRY' FIGHT HOT IN ARGENTINE

Newspapers Filled With Editorials And Articles On The Burning Issue

WINE GROWERS' PROTEST

Example Of The United States Is Cited Both For And Against Pending Prohibition Bill

Buenos Aires, July 8.—In consequence of the recent introduction of a prohibition bill in the Chamber of Deputies and the announcement that the Administration would not support it, the question of prohibition has come to the forefront as a subject of discussion here. The newspapers are filled with editorials and articles on the subject and the Mendoza wine growers are issuing protests and organising a junket of Deputies to the wine growing district to show the importance of the industry.

The "Secos," meaning drys, and the "Mojados," or wets, are engaged in stern controversy, citing the example of prohibition in the United States in arguments for and against it, and comparing conditions in the two countries.

President Irigoyen is in sympathy with restriction of the liquor traffic, it is understood, but believes that the country is not yet ready for total prohibition, such as the pending bill proposes.

His attitude, it is declared, is to be seen in the terms of the Commercial Travelers' treaty recently agreed to with the United States through Ambassador Stimson, a clause of which excludes from the benefits of the treaty "salesmen from the United States trafficking in alcoholic beverages in Argentina."

This clause, it is learned, was inserted at President Irigoyen's request. While presumably salesmen from the United States will not have such beverages to sell, it is pointed out that the clause establishes a precedent in the case of other nations that may desire to negotiate a similar treaty.

The prohibition agitation in Argentina follows reports of similar agitation in Brazil, Uruguay, Paraguay and Chile, one of the oddities of the situation being word from Punta Arenas, the world's southernmost city, that the labor element, having been unable to get prohibition legally adopted, has refused to unload alcoholic liquors from ships.

Bristol Seeks Limelight

Bristol, England, whose claims to fame are many, is coming back into its own by the application of methods which smack of the spirit manifest in the days of Queen Elizabeth.

As a port and center of commerce Bristol held for many years a position second to London. Too much prosperity, however, induced languor, so it is said, and for a time the city not only failed to make commercial progress, but slipped back. It was this that prompted a visitor from America to remark that "the only thing Bristol wanted was 100 first-class funerals."

The same American visiting Bristol today would be very much surprised to find that the city of apathy has become a center of commerce and hustle. The method by which this change was accomplished is unique and interesting.

Public-spirited citizens, appreciating the possibilities of the port known as the "Gateway of the Western Ocean," undertook a wide campaign, telling of the glorious past of that quaint seaport, throughout the English possessions and the United States.

One point emphasised in this campaign was the fact that the man who discovered English America, that is, Canada, was a Bristolian. In May, 1497, John Cabot and his three sons, with eighteen Bristol seamen, sailed away westward in the little ship Mathew, and discovered Newfoundland. At that time Bristol was to England what Genoa was to Italy.

Robert Thorne, another Bristolian, in 1527 sent two ships to find the Northwest Passage. One was wrecked, the other, held up by the ice, was forced to return. A third point is that William Penn's colonists who settled in Pennsylvania sailed from that port.

In 1552 a society was formed in Bristol for the purpose of fostering home industries. This organisation and some kindred societies "greatly aided our wondrous Queen Elizabeth in clipping the wings of the wily German, who for centuries had enjoyed privileges at the expanse of our own manufacturers and traders." The quotation is taken from a booklet circulated among the towns-people of the port and other cities.

This booklet, interesting in content and colloquialisms, goes on to say:

"We are rich in gifted men: painters and poets, sculptors, statesmen and historians. Sir Thomas Lawrence and William Muller, painters, and Bailey, the sculptor of the world-renowned 'Eve at the Fountain' were born here. At the corner of Broad and Corn Streets was the shop of Cottle, the publisher of the early poems and the friend of Coleridge, Southey (born in Wine Street) and Wordsworth. The two former married sisters in St. Mary Redcliffe, the church so closely greatest M. P., and on the bronze connected with the marvelous boy genius Chatterton 'the sleepless soul that perished in his pride' of whom Dr. Johnson said, 'It is wonderful how the whelp has written such things.'

"Of historians we have had Hakluyt, the learned churchman, Macaulay and Hume. The last named was clerk to Michael Miller at 16 Queen Square. He dared to correct his master's English. The angry merchant said, 'I have made 20,000 pounds by my English; I won't have it mended.' So his clerkship ended. Daniel Defoe lodged at the 'Star' in Cock and Bottle Lane, and it is still there. Here he met Alexander Selkirk, and from their talks came 'Robinson Crusoe.' Looking through the gates of the Corn Exchange we can almost hear the echo from the hustings of the lofty, burning eloquence of Edmund Burke, our pillars in the front—the three-century-old Bristol nails—merchants counted the money to pay for their purchases, hence came the world renowned saying 'Paying down on the nails.'"

In 1908 Henry L. Risely, a son of the town of Bristol, set out from that port to make a tour of the world, the purpose of which was to bring back to his birthplace some of its ancient glory. He traveled in Australia, New Zealand, China, Japan, India, Canada, the United States and through many of the European countries. He visited chambers of commerce, shipping interests and commercial and industrial organisations of every sort.
